JURORS ASSERT UNKNOWN HAND SLEW REYNOLDS

Coroner Group's Finding May or May Not Cause Grand Jury Probe.

WIDOW AND WALKER MAY BE RELEASED

Heir Made Suicide Threats, Libby Holman Sobbed Earlier in Day.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 11 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury which had studied the case for three days refused tonight to fix the responsibility for the death of Smith Reynolds, returning an indecisive verdict that the heir to tobacco millions came to his death from a bullet wound at the hands of a party or parties to the jury unknown.

The verdict had the effect of releasing from custody Libby Holman, Reynolds' widow, and Albert Walker, his secretary and chum, who had been held as material witnesses.

No responsibility was placed upon the grand jury as a result of the verdict and it may or may not, as its members see fit, begin an investigation of its own. The grand jury meets tomorrow.

The coroner's jury began deliberating at 8 o'clock tonight and reached its verdict at 11:45 p. m. It was signed by every member of the jury.

Remembered Only Flash.

In returning its verdict, the jury refused to accept in full faith the stories of Libby, former Broadway blues singer, and Walker, a life-long friend of Reynolds, that the 20-year-old son of the late R. J. Reynolds, wealthy tobacco manufacturer, killed himself.

Libby told the jury she could remember none of what happened just before Reynolds was shot, nor could she remember what happened afterwards for some hours but remembered a "flash" in which she saw Reynolds with a pistol to his head, heard him call her name and saw him fall.

Walker testified Reynolds told him just a few minutes before the shot that killed the youth was fired that he was going to kill himself.

In addition to accounts of the events of the night Reynolds was killed, the jury heard from Libby and Walker, during a six-hour session today, a strange story of dark fits of melancholia which seized the young millionaire and during which he often threatened to kill himself.

From Miss Holman the jury heard a sobbing story of marital unhappiness. She said her husband suffered a lapse of virility and often was melancholy from fear he could not hold her love.

Marital Unhappiness.

From Miss Holman, raven-haired Broadway revue star and Reynolds' second wife, the jury heard a sobbing story of marital unhappiness. She said her husband suffered a lapse of virility and often was melancholy from fear he could not hold her love.

Describing numerous times when, she said, he had threatened to kill himself, she expressed belief he had been crazy at the time.

Walker said Reynolds threw him his pocketbook a few minutes after a late party broke up at Reynolds, the Reynolds' palatial home, on Tuesday night, and said: "I'm going to end it all."

He testified Reynolds then went to Germany Disavows Allies Agreement

Lausanne Pact Precipitates Fatal Political Clashes in Reich.

Berlin, July 11 (A.P.).—The so-called gentlemen's agreement reached at Lausanne brought forth tonight a semiofficial government statement in which it was said that "Germany has nothing whatever to do with any agreements between England, France or other powers."

"Germany has throughout the conference consistently refused to be drawn into any combination whatsoever against the United States," the statement continued. "Hence no such agreement has been laid before the German government."

While Germany indulged in hot and heavy debate about the Lausanne settlement over the week-end, nine persons were killed and scores were seriously injured in political clashes in various parts of the country. It was the bloodiest Sunday the country has experienced during all the recent political turmoil.

The cabinet unanimously approved the agreement reached at Lausanne, which was strongly criticized by Herr Hitler, who asserted the 3,000,000 mark German payment it provides will not be worth 3 marks within six months.

Bill Legalizing Beer Is Shelved by Senate

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The battle over beer at the Capitol came to a close yesterday when the Senate, by a vote of 50 to 25, consigned the Bingham amendment to the judiciary committee, there to gather dust through the summer and maybe until the next Congress.

The Democrats said it was a sham battle, and so it was, for there was never any hope that the 2.75 per cent beer proposal would be adopted. However, from the standpoint of Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, and the other wet Republicans in the Senate the vote was of great political value.

It showed, Bingham said afterward, that the Democrats were insincere, that they were holding out false hopes to the voters when at their Chicago convention they adopted a plank calling for repeal and "immediate" modification of the Volstead act so as to legalize beer.

Mr. Bingham, the most rampant of the Republican wets, resurrected his beer bill just after the Democrats adopted their Chicago platform and tacked it on as an amendment, or a "rider" to the home loan banking bill.

After a week or more of parliamentary maneuvering and dodging, Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the Senate, yesterday moved that the Bingham amendment be referred to the judiciary committee.

A breakdown of the 50 to 25 vote in favor of this motion showed the following party line-up:

For—Republicans, 26; Democrats 24.

INQUIRY IS ORDERED ON LOANS BY R. F. C.

Senate Names Committee to Investigate; $90,000,000 to Dawes' Bank Cited.

(Associated Press.)

An investigation of loans by the Reconstruction Corporation was ordered yesterday by the Senate. A resolution to create a Senate committee of five members to make the inquiry was also approved.

The resolution was adopted at the behest of Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, its author. He said under the law details of the corporation's loans are kept secret, adding the investigation should be made to determine whether loans had been granted "in accordance with the law," and were "adequately secured."

The committee to investigate the corporation was named, as follows:

Senator Couzens, chairman; Senators Goldsborough (Republican), Maryland; Walcott (Republican), Connecticut; Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and Fletcher (Democrat), Florida.

In the short argument over the Reconstruction Corporation inquiry, the $90,000,000 loan to the Dawes' bank in Chicago was cited frequently. Senator Couzens, who sponsored the investigation, said he did not know whether an advance of this amount was justified. Senator Norris (Republican), suggested favoritism was involved. Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, maintained that such was not the case. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the bank, was, until a few weeks ago, president of the Finance Corporation.

Partial Army Bill Report Is Adopted

(Associated Press.)

A partial conference report on the $390,000,000 Army appropriation bill was adopted yesterday by the Senate.

The Army bill, only one of the annual supply bills not yet passed, has been deadlocked in conference because of a dispute between the House and Senate over the retirement of 2,000 officers.

Chairman Reed, of the Senate committee which handled the bill, predicted the House would yield on this question. The Senate insists that the 2,000 officers be retained.

LAST FIGHT TO SAVE JOBS DUE IN SENATE

Copeland Sees Jones Today on Appropriations for Five Departments.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

A last effort to save clerks in five Government departments from indeterminate furloughs or dismissals will be made today in the Senate.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, will confer with Appropriations Chairman Jones. The New York senator seeks immediate committee action to restore State, Justice, Commerce, Labor and Interior appropriations to original House figures.

There were other attacks yesterday on the economy front. Senator Shipstead (Republican), Minnesota, moved to remove alleged "discrimination" against Government Printing Office employes in the recent economy act.

He introduced a resolution to exempt these workers from the provision abolishing annual leave, pointing out that 1932 leave earned in this branch of the Government can not under the law be taken until 1933. He will ask a vote on the resolution in the next few days.

Meanwhile, Federal workers are waiting with some suspense for President Hoover's decision on five-day week recommendations of his council on personnel administration. To make the shorter work-week effective even in part of the Federal establishment, an executive order will be necessary.

A new petition against such a program was sent to the President by the executive committee of the League of the American Civil Service.

Senator Copeland yesterday char-

Brave New York Hotel Manager Recovers Loot

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Two armed men, dressed as laborers and carrying an empty mail pouch, robbed the Hotel Roosevelt of more than $3,000 tonight and lost the loot through the courage of Richard Sheppard, the office manager.

Sheppard, 43, of 197 Baldwin avenue, Jersey City, N. J., followed the robbers into East Forty-fifth street and grappled with them when he could not find a policeman. They dropped the money on the sidewalk and fled in a car bearing Massachusetts license plates.

Four Shot in Riot of 3,000 Idle at St. Louis City Hall

Six Policemen Also Injured as Bullets and Gas Answer Mob Trying to Rush Doors; Gun Victims Protest Innocence.

St. Louis, July 11 (A.P.).—Four men were shot and more than a score injured by flying missles today when police used tear gas to disperse a crowd of 3,000 unemployed persons, gathered on the city hall lawn under auspices of the Unemployed Councils of St. Louis, a Communist organization.

The riot started after three hours of speech-making, when a movement was organized to rush the doors of the city hall. Six policemen were injured, several receiving broken bones. About 25 men and 10 women were arrested and taken to police headquarters. Some had lacerations and bruises.

As the crowd broke and ran several of the bolder spirits threw bricks and stones at the policemen, more than 100 of whom had been mobilized. Police followed the stone throwers, hurling tear gas bombs and firing their revolvers.

The four men who were shot, one a Negro, denied they were participating in the demonstration and declared they were struck by stray bullets. The most seriously wounded was Edward Gillihan, 36, who said he was working across the street. He was hit in the right breast.

Many persons, including children, were thrown to the ground by the force of the first retreat and were trampled by those behind them. Within fifteen minutes almost all demonstrators had dispersed, leaving hats, shoes, brick and other debris upon the lawn.

Previously a committee had called at the office of the mayor, who was out, and visited the board of aldermen, demanding relief for "those hungry people out there." The board was then in session to consider special tax bills to raise money for relief and promptly passed two of them.

VETERANS OPEN QUIZ ON RACKET OF AID SEEKERS

Impostors Obtain Cash and Food Intended for Men Here.

U. S. ENTRY IN PROBE OVER NATION LOOMS

Bonus Seekers' Exodus Goes On With Protection as Threats Are Made.

A Nation-wide investigation of wholesale racketeering has been started by the national headquarters of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces to ferret out impostors who have been soliciting money and food for the veterans and converting the proceeds to their own use.

Emissaries of the bonus army have been sent to Chicago, New York, Atlantic City, and Newark, N. J., to investigate the disappearance of truckloads of foodstuffs and contributions of money, collected ostensibly for the veterans, but which never reached national headquarters.

Entry of the Department of Justice into the inquiry may be made today, when Roy W. Robertson, of Los Angeles, Calif., is scheduled to tell his story of a group which solicited through the Western States.

Less Than $200 Received.

"Soliciting contributions for the Bonus Army," said Capt. Eugene F. Everett, of Union City, N. J., national finance officer of the army, "has become the most profitable racket in the country."

The group against which Robertson complained campaigned for funds through Texas, Arizona, Arkansas and Oklahoma. They were composed of a group of supposed veterans and several women, the latter garbed as Red Cross nurses.

Tag days were held in cities in the Southwest and the Middle West, and contributors were given tags bearing a red cross. Placards were placed in stores, bearing a red cross. Later, however, notations were made in pencil on the signs that the group was not affiliated with the Red Cross.

Since Capt. Everett took over the finances of the army on June 30, he said, less than $200 had been sent to him, and none has been received from these campaigning units. "I am certain that thousands of dollars have been collected for the army which have never reached the national headquarters."

Won't Join Forces.

The group that campaigned in the West exhibited telegrams purportedly from Commander in Chief Walter W. Waters, authorizing them to solicit funds and food. It is known that Waters did send out such authorizations, but all were revoked on June 30 when the executive committee was overthrown.

The activities of this group is the reason Robertson will not affiliate the 1,400 veterans led by him with the main army. "I want to know first," he said, "whether the national headquarters is sanctioning such hap-

U.S. Denies Aiding Gentleman's Pact

Stimson Also Declares No Nation Has Asked Debt Revision.

(Associated Press.)

No European power, Secretary Stimson told newspapermen yesterday, has made any proposal for a revision of debts owed to the United States.

Furthermore, he said very positively, no representative of the State Department, either in Lausanne or in Washington, had anything to do with framing the so-called gentleman's agreement reported from Lausanne, which provides the European settlement of German reparations shall not go into effect unless the United States scales down European debts.

A resolution by Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, worded to demand of the State Department an answer as to the truth of published reports that the Government had expressed willingness to consider further reduction of debt payments, remained before the Senate. It was not reached for action during yesterday's session.

Issue of Treasury Bills Largely Oversubscribed

(Associated Press.)

Acting Secretary Ballantine of the Treasury announced yesterday that subscriptions totaling $273,658,000 were received for $75,278,000 worth of 90-day Treasury bills maturing October 11.

The average price of the bills to be issued is 99.904. The average rate on a bank discount basis is about 0.39 per cent.

"Approach" Made Before Reparations Accord, Chamberlain Says.

EACH NATION TO ACT ON OWN, IS POSITION

MacDonald Will Expound That View Today in Talk to Commons.

London, July 11 (U.P.).—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, indicated today that representatives of the United States at Lausanne were "approached" on the question of war debt revision before the European signatories arrived at their reparations agreement.

Chamberlain, replying to scathing criticism of the agreement by Winston Churchill, was guarded in his references to possible American action, but he declared that "conversations with representatives of the United States" had been held.

Churchill had been insistent in his demand that the government explain the "gentleman's agreement" which admittedly predicates fulfillment of the Lausanne terms upon America's willingness to forgo much of the great war debt owing her by European nations.

No Cause for Alarm Seen.

"We have been in touch at Lausanne not only with the European representatives," Chamberlain said, "but we have had conversations with the representatives of the United States. I ask the house to believe that in this rather delicate situation the house has no reason to think the course we have taken is one which may lead to any of those unfortunate results Mr. Churchill anticipates."

Chamberlain deplored Churchill's attitude, declaring it was embarrassing in view of the debate on the agreement which is scheduled for tomorrow. He therefore declined to make a full answer to the former chancellor, because he would be anticipating a statement from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Prime Minister MacDonald will repudiate the suggestion that Great Britain is a party to the reported "united front" of Europe against the United States, when he explains the Lausanne reparations agreement in the House of Commons tomorrow.

Nations to Act Separately.

The British official position, it was learned from authoritative sources tonight, will be that Great Britain, France and Italy have agreed that it is "every nation for herself," although each nation "should act with due regard to each other's interests and for the general good."

It is agreed, according to this source, that no nation should make a war debt settlement with the United States to which the others might object.

British officials, furthermore, expect the United States to deal with the debt question on the merits of the individual debtors, and not as a collective enterprise.

Bee Wrecks Auto; 4 Persons Injured

Man Loses Control of Car; He, Wife and Their 2 Children Hurt.

A bee wrecked a sedan late yesterday afternoon and four persons were badly injured, including two children. The insect flew into the automobile of William Bradley, of Falmouth, Va., near Woodlawn, on the Washington-Richmond pike.

In his efforts to rout the bee to protect his wife and children, Warren, 5, and Arline, 7, Mr. Bradley lost control of the automobile and it crashed into a tree.

Mr. Bradley suffered a fractured left arm and severe lacerations. Mrs. Bradley was badly cut about the face and body and lost several teeth, while the two children also were badly cut. They received first aid at Fort Humphreys Hospital and later were transferred to the Fredericksburg Hospital by the ambulance of Hall & Davir, of Occoquan. The Bradleys were on their way to Baltimore, where a niece of Mr. Bradley was to undergo a serious operation.

Former Aid to Wilson Offers to Help Hoover

(Associated Press.)

Frank Parker Stockbridge, of Stockbridge, Mass., who aided Woodrow Wilson in his preconvention campaign for the Presidency, called at the White House yesterday to offer his services to President Hoover.

Stockbridge, editor of the American Press, said he was neither a Democrat nor a Republican, but intended to aid the President in the coming campaign in every way possible.

Text of Hoover Message Vetoing Relief Measure

To the House of Representatives:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, H. R. 12445, "Emergency Relief and Construction Act of 1932."

On the 31st of May last I addressed the Senate recommending further definite and large scale measures to aid in relief of distress and unemployment imposed upon us by the continued degeneration in the world economic situation. These proposals were made after discussion with leaders of both political parties in Congress and in endeavor to secure united nonpartisan action.

Proposals by President.

They were in brief:

1. Authorization to the Reconstruction Corporation to loan up to $300,000,000 to State governments which are unable to finance themselves to care for distress, such loans to be made upon the basis of need.

2. Authorization to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy bonds or otherwise temporarily to finance public bodies and to provide part of needed loans in limited cases also to private industry to increase employment through construction of sound self-liquidating or income-producing projects.

3. Authorization to the corporation to undertake to finance exports of agricultural products and to make loans to institutions on the security of agricultural commodities in order to assure the carrying of normal stocks and the orderly marketing of these commodities.

4. To increase authority of the corporation to issue securities by a further $1,500,000,000.

ROOSEVELT SCORED AS LACKING REMEDY

Mills Attacks Governor's Vagueness in Initial Campaign Speech.

Boston, July 11 (A.P.).—Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, tonight opened the Republican 1932 presidential campaign here with the charge that the Democratic nominee, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, had no program to meet the economic situation.

Secretary Mills spoke before an assembly of Republicans in historic Faneuil Hall and attacked the expressions on economic issues in the Democratic party's platform and Gov. Roosevelt's speech of acceptance.

Summarizing his analysis of Gov. Roosevelt's acceptance speech, Secretary Mills said: "It is apparent that insofar as relief is concerned the governor has no program at all."

Secretary Mills denied that the Republican administration was responsible for the economic depression; attacked the "liberal" label as applied to Gov. Roosevelt; charged the record of the Democratic majority in the national House under Speaker Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, with being in marked contrast with the "boldness" and "originality" of the administration program, and said that while Gov. Roosevelt's acceptance speech was "appealing" to the casual listener, it could not stand up under the "acid test of careful analysis."

"To meet the problems of the times," Secretary Mills said, "no man living has the qualifications of President Hoover."

"Is this the time," he asked, "at the very peak of the struggle, to order the veterans to the rear and to

Lords Cheer Passage Of Tariff on Ireland

London, July 11 (A.P.).—Government supporters cheered tonight when the House of Lords passed the act empowering the British government to impose retaliatory duties up to 100 per cent on goods of the Irish Free State. The House of Commons had already approved the bill.

By the measure, which only awaits royal assent, the government intends to recoup land annuities defaulted by the Free State.

CURRENCY INFLATION APPROVED IN SENATE

Glass Bill Adopted, 53 to 18, to Add Nearly Billion to Money Circulating.

(Associated Press.)

Controlled expansion of the currency as an aid to economic recovery was approved yesterday by the Senate by an overwhelming vote.

With little debate, it adopted, 53 to 18, the Glass bill to add nearly $1,000,000,000 in money to the country's circulating medium, as an amendment to the home loan banking bill. Final action on the entire measure still remains to be taken.

Just before the Glass bill was adopted, an attempt by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, to substitute for it the House-approved Goldsborough bill to stabilize the dollar was shouted down.

The Glass bill would permit the issuance of currency against $995,000,000 of United States bonds now held by national banks.

The Goldsborough bill would authorize the Federal Reserve Board to fix the value of the dollar at the average for the period between 1921 and 1929.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, championed Glass' bill as an amendment to the home loan measure, contending that inflation of the currency was necessary to increase commodity price levels and thus help economic rehabilitation.

Only 4 Democrats and 14 Republicans disagreed with him in the final vote, while 29 Democrats, 23 Republicans and Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, voted for the amendment.

The Senate amended the Glass bill to confine the circulation to bonds bearing an interest rate of 3½ per cent or less and limiting the period in which the bill will operate to three instead of five years.

J. P. Morgan Is Sued In Broadway Accident

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan has been named defendant in a suit for $75,000 damages filed in Supreme Court by Harold A. Baugh, 39, of New York, who charged he suffered probably permanent injuries as a result of being struck by an automobile owned by the financier January 27 last at Broadway and William streets.

Zoo Directors Flip Penny For Prized Wild Animals

Dr. William Mann Divides L. Ross Freeman Collection With Dr. Raymond Ditmars, of Bronx; Python, Cobras and Tigers in Lot.

"Here's one for you and one for me," runs the chant of small boys dividing the haul after a day of nutting.

The directors of two of the largest zoos in the United States played the game yesterday in dividing up the huge collection of valuable animals and birds L. Ross Freeman, amateur collector, had brought from the United States Rubber Co. plantation at Kisarim, Sumatra.

Dr. William Mann, director of the National Zoological Park at Washington, and Dr. Raymond Ditmars, director of the Bronx Park Zoo, matched pennies at the dock for first choices of the 293 animals and 100 birds which were brought in on the liner Javanese Prince, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Prizes the Zoo officials matched for included a 27-foot python, two king cobras, six Sumatra tigers, a honey bear, a spotted leopard and three binturongs. The binturongs have faces like foxes, but make their homes in trees.

If Dr. Mann was lucky in the matching game, he will have three Sumatra tigers to add to his collection here. All of the tigers now at the Zoo are Bengal and Siberian tigers.

The two Zoo directors would have had more pythons to match for, but unfortunately three born at sea died.

Dr. Mann won a number of gibbons and orang-utanga and left with them last night for Washington, the Associated Press said.

Jersey G. O. P. Requests Change in Volstead Law

Trenton, N. J., July 11 (A.P.).—President Hoover and Congress were urged to cooperate for immediate modification of the Volstead act in a resolution adopted today by the Republican State committee.

DEMOCRATS SEE EARLY RELIEF TO SATISFY HOOVER

Forecast Made by House Leaders After Veto of Measure.

PRESIDENT ASSAILS GARNER'S PROPOSAL

Wagner Wins Right of Way for New Bill; Vote May Come Thursday.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Prompt enactment of an emergency relief bill acceptable to the administration was predicted by Democratic leaders in the House yesterday following the reading of President Hoover's anticipated veto message rejecting Speaker Garner's personal proposal for direct small loan to individuals.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, announced soon after the arrival of the President's message that the House ways and means committee would begin work this morning on a new bill embodying the compromise accepted by all save Speaker Garner at last week's White House conferences.

No attempt was made to override the veto in the House.

In reiterating his objections to the small-loan provision of the rejected measure, President Hoover again urged "with the utmost seriousness" the prompt enactment of constructive relief legislation.

Held Violation of Principle.

"This proposal," he said, in rejecting the Garner plan, "violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals.

"In view of the short time left to the Congress for consideration of this legislation and of the urgent need for sound relief measures, the necessity of which I have on several occasions urged upon the Congress, I recommend that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both houses and both parties, and that Congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished."

As outlined by the President and already promised by Representative Rainey as soon as the House committee can perfect the new bill, the legislation would provide:

1. Authority to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend to the States up to $300,000,000 for the care of distress, where existing State funds are inadequate.

2. Authorization of $322,000,000 for

INQUIRY IN TREASURY CONDUCT DISCUSSED

Investigation Would Hamper Tax Collections, House Group Told.

(Associated Press.)

A searching inquiry into the conduct of the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board was discussed yesterday without reaching a conclusion by the rules committee of the House.

Without openly opposing, two administration financial spokesmen made it clear to the committee that a congressional investigation of the Treasury and Federal Reserve Board is considered undesirable.

Undersecretary Ballantine, of the Treasury, and Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, were the witnesses.

Ballantine said, while the Treasury had no objection to a congressional investigation, he believed an inquiry would hamper the department in the application of the recently enacted tax laws.

Meyer likewise said he had no objection to an investigation into the Federal Reserve, but called attention of the committee to the fact that the Senate banking committee had just completed a two-year study of the reserve system.

Representatives McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, and Patman (Democrat), Texas, appeared to urge the inquiry.

McFadden charged that the administration was using its influence to block the proposed investigation.

"My appeal is on behalf of the public interest and not political benefit," said McFadden, sponsor of investigating resolutions that last week gained the support of Speaker Garner.

McFadden caused a furore near the beginning of last session by asserting that President Hoover had "sold out" to international bankers.

additional public works projects, on condition that no funds be expended until the Secretary of the Treasury shall have certified that the financing of the new projects would not interfere with the sound management of the Federal Government's fiscal program. This provision would subject every new public works project not in the current budget save roads and trails, to certification by the Treasury.

3. Provision for direct private loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance self-liquidating projects which would promote immediate employment and also loans for the direct aid of agriculture to advance orderly marketing of major crops.

To carry out these provisions, the capital resources of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be expanded by $1,800,000,000 from the present authorization of $2,000,000,000. But as only about half of the original authorization of $2,000,000,000 has been drawn upon, the additional authority would remain largely an emergency reservoir of credit with little prospect of its being drawn upon for many months, if ever.

Right of Way in Senate.

As the House leaders prepared to rewrite the relief bill, Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, coauthor of the rejected measure, won the right of way for the new bill in the Senate. The $135,000,000 House road bill, now on the Senate calendar, was made the next special order of business after disposition of the home loan bill, on which a final vote may be expected today. Under this program, the new relief bill may be enacted by Thursday.

In a move to prepare the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the additional burdens which will be imposed by the relief legislation, President Hoover requested Congress yesterday, in a special message, to enlarge the R. F. C. board to eight members and to relieve the governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the farm loan commissioner as ex-officio members of the directorate. The Secretary of the Treasury, however, would remain on the board.

"The extraordinary heavy ourdens placed upon the directors of the corporation during the past few months," the President said, "have resulted in the overwork especially of the exofficio members. It has within the past few days arrived at a point where there is danger of a physical breakdown among the exofficio members in their endeavor to carry dual duties."

Board of Eight Urged.

The message recommended establishment of a board of eight members, of whom not more than four shall belong to any one political party, "in order that the operations of the corporation may be conducted with certainty and public confidence both as to its nonpartisan character and its personnel."

Agricultural Aid Urged In New Relief Proposal

(Associated Press.)

A plea that the relief bill finally enacted contain two items favorable to agriculture was placed before President Hoover yesterday by officers of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, said it was desired to retain provisions for loans to finance the sale of surplus agricultural products in foreign markets and to establish regional agricultural credit corporations.

O'Neal said he also asked the President's support for the Norbeck-Rainey bill which provides for a tax on the processors of wheat, cotton and hogs to help the farmer.

desirability of increasing expenditure on nonproductive public works beyond the $500,000,000 of construction already in the budget.

It is an ultimate burden upon the taxpayer.

It unbalances the budget after all our efforts to attain that object.

It does not accomplish the purpose in creating employment for which it is designed, as is shown by the reports of the technical heads of the bureaus concerned that the total annual direct employment under this program would be less than 100,000 out of the 8,000,000 unemployed.

Strongly as I feel that this departs from sound public finance, and that it does not accomplish the purpose for which it is instituted, I am not prepared for this reason alone to withhold by assent to the bill provided there is a proper provision that (except for expenditure on public roads which is deductible from future appropriations, together with park and forest roads and trails), these works should not be initiated except on certificate of the Secretary of the Treasury that the moneys necessary for such expenditure are available, or can be obtained, without interference with current financing operations of the Government.

The expression of this principle in the present bill is not in this form and is not adequate.

Title II.

This title is the major extension of the authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation itself was warranted only as a temporary measure to safely pass a grave national emergency which would otherwise have plunged us into destructive panic in consequence of the financial collapse in Europe.

Its purpose was to preserve the credit structure of the Nation and thereby protect every individual in his employment, his farm, his bank deposits, his insurance policy and his other savings, all of which are directly or indirectly in the safe keeping of the great fiduciary institutions.

Its authority was limited practically to loans to institutions which are under Federal or State control or regulation and affected with public interest. These functions were and are in the interest of the whole people.

Present Problem Outlined.

Our problem now is to further widen the activities of the Reconstruction Corporation in the field of employment and to further strengthen agriculture in such a practical fashion as will benefit the whole people, as will not damage any part of the people and confer no special privileges upon any of the people.

So far as those portions of the proposed extension of authority to the corporation provide authorization temporarily to finance self-liquidating works up to the sum of $1,500,000,000, it is in accord with my recommendations.

The section dealing with agricultural relief does not provide for loans to sound institutions upon the security of agricultural products in order to assist in production and finance of normal holdings and stocks of these commodities and thus aid in the orderly marketing of agricultural products so sorely needed at the present time.

Secondary Objections.

There are several secondary objections to this title with which I will not trouble the Congress, because my major objection to the measure, as now formulated, lies in the inclusion of an extraordinary extension of authority to the Reconstruction Corporation to make loans to "individuals, to trusts, estates, partnerships, corporations (public or quasi-public or private), to associations, joint stock companies States, political subdivisions of States, municipalities, or political subdivisions thereof." The following objections are directed to this particular provision:

First—This expansion of authority of the Reconstruction Corporation would mean loans against security for any conceivable purpose on any conceivable security to anybody who wants money.

It would place the Government in private business in such fashion as to violate the very principle of public relations upon which we have builded our Nation and renders insecure its very foundations. Such action would make the Reconstruction Corporation the greatest banking and money lending institution of all history.

Held Gigantic Centralization.

It would constitute a gigantic centralization of banking and finance to which the American people have been properly opposed for the past 100 years. The purpose of the expansion is no longer in the spirit of solving a great major emergency but to establish a privilege whether it serves a great national end or not.

Second. One of the most serious objections is that under the provisions of this bill these among 16,000 municipalities and the different States that have failed courageously to meet their responsibilities and to balance their own budgets would dump their financial liabilities and problems upon the Federal Government.

All proper and insuperable difficulties they may confront in providing relief for distress are fully and carefully met under other provisions in the bill.

Impracticable and Unworkable.

Third. The board of directors of the Reconstruction Corporation inform me unanimously that miscellaneous loans under this provision are totally impracticable and unworkable.

It would be necessary to set up a huge bureaucracy, to establish branches in every county and town in the United States. The task of organization, of finding competent personnel, would not be a matter of months but of years.

Hundreds of thousands of applications representing every diversity of business and interest in the country would immediately flood the board, all of which must be passed upon by seven men. The directors would be dependent upon the ability and integrity of local committees and branch managers.

Every political pressure would be assembled for particular persons. It would be within the power of these agencies to dictate the welfare of millions of people, to discriminate between competitive business at will, and to deal favor and disaster among them. If it be contended that these hundreds of thousands of miscellaneous loans will be used to increase employment, then an additional bureaucracy for espionage must follow up each case and assure that these funds be used for such purpose.

Fourth. The sole limitation under the bill is that loans shall be secured and that the borrowers shall not have been able to obtain loans from private institutions upon acceptable terms.

This at once throws upon the corporation all the doubtful loans in the United States. It would result in every financial institution calling upon their customers whom they regard as less adequately secured to discharge their loans and to demand the money from the Government through the Reconstruction Corporation.

The organization would be constantly subjected to conspiracies and raids of predatory interests, individuals and private corporations.

Huge losses and great scandals must inevitably result. It would mean the squandering of hundreds of millions of public funds to be ultimately borne by the taxpayer.

Fifth. The bill provides only the funds to the corporation which the Senate with reason deemed the minimum necessary to aid construction projects and to cover loans to the States in aid of distress. There is, therefore, no provision in the bill for any sum of money for the purpose of these miscellaneous loans.

Impossible to Carry Out.

The corporation would thereby be charged with a duty impossible to carry out in practice with no additional funds with which to make loans unless the unemployment projects and the loans to the States are abandoned or seriously curtailed and the fundamental purpose of the legislation defeated.

Sixth—Under the new obligations upon the Reconstruction Corporation to finance the additional construction activities and loans to the States in addition to its present activities, it will be necessary for the corporation to place over $3,000,000,000 of securities.

It can place these securities only because the credit of the United States is pledged to secure these obligations.

To sell any such amount of securities at a time like this is a difficult enough task, strong as is the credit of the United States, without having the credit of the Government undermined by the character of use to which it is directed that these monies should be applied.

As long as obligations of the corporation are based on wholy sound securities for self-liquidating purposes, of which early repayment is assured, there is no burden upon the taxpayer. There is an assurance of a strengthening of the economic situation.

But if the funds of the corporation are to be squandered by taking loans for the purposes here referred to, it will be at once evident that the credit of the Government is being misused and it is not too much to say that if such a measure should become law it further weakens the whole economic situation by threatening the credit of the United States Government with grave consequences of disaster to our people.

Conclusion.

This proposal violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals.

In view of the short time left to the Congress for consideration of this legislation and of the urgent need for sound relief measures, the necessity of which I have on several occasions urged upon the Congress, I recommend that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both Houses and both parties, and that the Congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished. Such compromise proposal should embrace:

First: Title I, of H. R. 12445, the act now under consideration, covering provisions for loans to States in amount of $300,000,000 for the care of distress in States where needed.

Second: Title III of this act, with the provision made applicable to all parts of the title except from roads and trails, that such works shall not be initiated except on certificate of the Secretary of the Treasury that the funds necessary are available and can be obtained without interference with the current financing operations of the Government.

Third: That there should be substituted for title II the substance of the provisions in the substitute bill introduced by Senator Wagner and passed by the Senate, or Senate bill 4822, introduced by Senator Barbour or section four of the substitute bill introduced by Representative Hawley. Among them they provide not only loans for construction work of projects of self-liquidating character but also essential aids to agriculture.

Fourth: That the corporation be authorized to increase its issues of capital by $1,800,000,000 for these purposes.

With the utmost seriousness I urge the Congress to enact a relief measure, but I can not approve the measure before me fraught as it is with possibilities of misfeasance and special privileges, so impracticable of administration, so dangerous to public credit and so damaging to our whole conception of governmental relations to the people as to bring far more distress than it will cure.

Relief Measure's Veto Sets Record for Speed

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's veto of the Garner-Wagner relief bill set at least one record. It was administered faster than any other during his or any recent administration.

The doomed bill reached the Executive Mansion at 1:12 p. m., and was taken immediately into the President's office. Waiting only to glance at the bill's title, he signed the veto message, already written. Within fifteen minutes his messenger was on his way to the Capitol.

CURTIS WILL APPEAL YEAR AND $1,000 FINE

Mystery Still Shrouds Hoax as Builder is Sentenced in Lindbergh Case.

Flemington, N. J., July 11 (A.P.).—A penalty of one year's imprisonment and a fine of $1,000 was imposed today on John Hughes Curtis for obstructing justice in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. Immediate steps were taken to appeal.

Curtis stood with his hands behind his massive back and stared motionless as the sentence was pronounced. Then he went back to his jail cell, while his lawyer in Norfolk, Va., announced friends were raising bail funds for him.

Lloyd Fisher, Curtis' lawyer here, said he would get in touch with Norfolk friends and try to arrange bond, fixed at $10,000, in a day or two.

W. C. Pender, the Norfolk lawyer, said funds being raised there would be used either to pay the fine—in case an attempt to get the prison sentence suspended is successful—or to pay for an appeal. Printing the voluminous record for an appeal probably would cost between $1,000 and $1,200, he said.

Strangely, the real truth about whether or not the boat builder actually was in contact with the desperate band of kidnapers he described to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh never has been established technically. The jury decided he did have such contact, since the court instructed them they must so find in order to convict.

In a heated argument preceding imposing of the sentence, which Fisher sought to block by asking an arrest of judgment, the lawyer proclaimed loudly that his client never knew the kidnapers.

"He was just a man with wild dreams about boats and things," he shouted to the bench.

But Curtis, despite the hoax confession typed before his arrest in May, announced after he was sentenced:

"I believe the information I gave the New Jersey authorities will prove valuable if they will act upon it."

CORONER'S JURY RETURNS VERDICT IN REYNOLDS DEATH

the second floor of the home and a few minutes later he heard the shot which ended the youth's life.

A sensational story of an incident involving Walker and Mrs. Reynolds while Reynolds lay unconscious in the hospital to which he was taken after he was shot was given by Miss Ruby Jenkins, nurse at the hospital.

She said she heard a commotion in another hospital room and when she went to it found Libby and Walker on the floor struggling to get up.

"Oh my baby, my baby," she quoted Libby as saying.

"What do you mean?" she said Walker asked.

"Don't you know I'm going to have a baby?" Libby was quoted as asking.

Walker told the former torch singer, one attendant testified, to say nothing of the shooting.

After hearing its two principal witnesses and getting details of the Tuesday night party, which was given in honor of the twenty-first birthday of C. G. Hill, a Winston-Salem friend of Reynolds, the jury went to the scene of the shooting to inspect it. The inquest was held in the Reynolds home.

Tales of Heavy Drinking.

After visiting the sleeping porch where Reynolds was shot, the jury ordered Libby and Walker held under guard at Reynolds and adjourned until 8 o'clock tonight. It still was in session at 9 p. m.

Tales of heavy drinking by Libby came from the guests at the party.

Lewin S. McGinnis, municipal airport manager and one of the guests, said he saw Libby and Mrs. Bill Vaught, of Greensboro, drinking corn whisky and chase it with near beer.

Walker described Libby's condition that night as "a little tight."

Sobbing her story of their marital unhappiness, Libby said Reynolds had urged her to have an affair with another because of his inability to make her happy.

"No, no," she cried, "I told him my love for him was too great to be impaired by any one thing."

The 26-year-old widow lost all her composure when she reached the point in her testimony of telling of alleged impotency of young Reynolds.

On the Monday night preceding the shooting early last Wednesday, Reynolds, she testified, became so worried about her happiness that he said definitely he would take steps to break up the marriage for her sake.

"Oh, such agony. Oh, God," exclaimed Libby, sobbing.

"Buck up," said her father, Albert Holman, of Cincinnati. "I can't bear it for you. I wish I could."

Undergoes Searching Quiz

As Libby clutched at her long, white, pleated frock she was subjected to a searching examination as to what she had known of Walker, who was both chum nad secretary to Reynolds, 20-year-old multimillionaire. She wore sandals and no stockings.

She said she met Walker last summer on Long Island, where she and Smith had residences.

"I saw him then and on a visit here in October, but I never saw him in my life except when Smith brought him around," she testified.

When Walker came to the stand later he asserted that during the midnight party preceding the shooting Libby threw her arms around him and said, "Smith doesn't love me."

Walker described her condition as "very tight" and another witness told of extensive drinking during the entertainment at the palatial estate.

Walker said he told Reynolds of the incident. He denied Libby kissed him.

Libby's own story, which exhausted her to such an extent that she stumbled from the hearing, retraced her relations with Reynolds from their first meeting.

Her bushy black hair leashed by a narrow white band, the young widow appeared melancholy, but composed as the hearing began. Her sobs came as she reached the intimate portions of the narrative.

Tells of "Wild Looks."

He "imagined things," such as "that I didn't love him," she related.

"Wild looks" would come in his eyes. And once, she testified, he placed the muzzle of a pistol to her head after, she said, she had told him if he was determined to kill himself, to kill her also, because "I did not want to live without him."

Beginning in a low voice, she hesitantly told of her first meeting with Reynolds, in Baltimore, while she was appearing on the stage there in April, 1930.

Later Reynolds pursued her to Florida and France.

"Smith begged me to marry him before he started on his trip around the world," she said.

She testified she came to Reynolds as a guest a month prior to November 29, 1930, when they were married in Monroe, Mich. She said they were married in Michigan "because Smith was a minor and you do not have to have your parents' consent in Michigan."

Said Life Was Loveless.

The final marriage importunities of the 20-year-old youth came in Pittsburgh, she said, on the Sunday before the ceremony.

After the wedding, according to her testimony, they went to a hotel in Toledo, Ohio. Reynolds left on his trip shortly thereafter and she continued acting under her contract until last February, and met Smith in Hongkong in April. They returned to America the following month, she said, and the marriage was announced.

While staying at the Ambassador Hotel in New York after their return, she admitted, the fact of their marriage was questioned and straightened out.

When Reynolds asked her to marry him, she said, he told her: "Libby, I need you. I've never had any love in my life."

Told of Former Troubles.

"I told him I would give up the theater," she continued. "Of my own accord I begged him to let me give up the theater and go to school with him."

She said she was fully advised at the time of his marital troubles with the former Anne Cannon, Concord, N. C., textile heiress, and of his divorce. She denied he asked her to marry him before the divorce had been granted.

Referring to one occasion when she said young Reynolds had sought to make a will in her favor, but was prevented from dong so because he was not of age, her voice broke.

"I did not want him to make a will," she sobbed.

She declared she would rather it had become necessary for him to get a job "and get rid of the curse of that money."

Referring to the suicide threats, she said a shooting at Port Washington last summer, which has been the object of investigation since Reynolds' death, occurred when a pistol he was showing her how to use, was discharged in the living room of the home where they were staying.

She said on Sunday before the tragedy Reynolds had left her, and gone to a hotel to spend the night, after another suicide threat when she had told him she believed him crazy, and that she thought he should have his head examined.

She burst into tears, and had to be comforted by members of her family.

She said Reynolds had a gun all the time because he had expressed the fear she might be kidnaped and held for ransom.

Woman Candidate Raps Economy Bill

Miss Gail Laughlin Scores Provisions Against Married Workers.

Provisions of the economy bill which call for the discharge of married Government workers when both husband and wife are holding Federal jobs were vigorously attacked yesterday by Miss Gail Laughlin, Republican candidate for Congress from Maine.

She launched her attack at a tea given in her honor at Alva Belmont House by the Government Workers' Council of the National Woman's Party. When there is anything, personal, State or national, which needs adjusting and no one knows what to do, the usual thing is to "wallop women," she declared.

The move to dismiss Government employes on the basis of their marital status is unjust and arbitrary and places retention and dismissal in the service on other grounds than efficiency and merit which would be the only basis considered in public or private service, she declared.

Couzens to Press Vote on Garsaud

Committee Will Sit Today on Louisianian's Appointment to Power Board.

(Associated Press.)

Determined to obtain Senate consideration if possible before adjournment, Chairman Couzens of the interstate commerce committee yesterday called for a vote today on the protested nomination of Marcel Garsaud, of New Orleans, for reappointment to the Power Commission.

Sitting briefly yesterday, the committee heard Garsaud defend himself against charges brought against him by Senator Long (Democrat), of Louisiana. It then put off until today a final decision.

In reply to Long's accusations that he was friendly to "power interests" and that the commission was a "quit claim agency" of the Electric Bond & Share Co., Garsaud presented records of commission decisions in controversial power cases.

Name of "Will Rogers" To Be on Run-Off Ballot

Oklahoma City, July 11 (A.P.).—Will Rogers' name is to be on the Oklahoma run-off primary ballot July 26 as a Democratic candidate for Congressman at large, after all.

Reford Bond, chairman of the State election board, announced tonight the board had dismissed a protest of E. B. Howard against the filing of a rural schoolmaster under the name made famous by a drawling cowboy from Claremore, Okla.

Garner Thinks Congress Will Adjourn This Week

Speaker Garner told newspapermen yesterday he believed Congress would adjourn by the end of the week.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee plans to leave for his Uvalde, Tex., home for a fortnight of recreation, before taking active part in the presidential campaign.

ST. PAUL DESPERADO IS KILLED BY POLICE

Youth, Shot Down on Banks of St. Joseph River, Denied Plea to See Bride.

South Bend, Ind., June 11 (A.P.). James Storey, 22-year-old St. Paul (Minn.) youth, wanted in Ohio for murder, robberies and kidnapings, died in a hospital here tonight, little more than twelve hours after he was shot down by police officers who arrested him here early today.

A bullet in the abdomen, received when Storey broke away from his captors at the police station, raced through the business district, leaped a bridge railing and with manacled hands tried to swim to freedom, caused his death.

Only police and hospital attaches were at the bedside. The youth's last request, that his bride of three weeks be brought to see him, was denied. Police said her father, Delbert Hardy, had taken the girl, Margaret, to a Michigan lake resort 70 miles from here.

During the last questioning by police, the young desperado insisted his real name was O'Keefe, and not Storey.

Storey, with his brothers, Bert, 19, and Manley, 17, began a series of crimes last week which included the slaying of Jay Davis, town marshal at North Baltimore, Ohio; the wounding of Dr. Martin Larkin at Toledo; four kidnapings and the robbery of a gasoline filling station.

Bert was seriously wounded and captured when Marshal Davis was killed. Manley also was arrested.

Car Headlights Warning Issued in Takoma Park

Takoma Park police yesterday issued a warning to motorists that the law regarding carrying headlights on automobiles and requiring a parking light on parked cars will be strictly enforced. No arrests have been made as yet, warning notices having been placed on offending cars.

Arrests will be made, however, in cases where the owner has been given a warning and after sufficient warning has been given to motorists, police say.

Grant Asks Park Share in Aid Fund

Would Use $100,000 to Provide Work in New Areas.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, yesterday said that he had asked Sidney F. Taliaferro, chairman of a special committee of the Board of Public Welfare, for a share of the fund of $350,000 which has just been made available for relief work in the District.

Col. Grant said that his department might get as much as $100,000, which would be used employing men to work in recently acquired park areas. The program would be similar to that of last year, which was financed with funds from the Community Chest.

The District Commissioners are waiting the recommendation of Mr. Taliaferro's committee as to the expending of the fund. The report of the committee will be made public today.

ROOSEVELT STEERS SAILBOAT ON CRUISE

Port Jefferson, N. Y., July 11 (A.P.).—Handling the wheel himself, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt left with three of his sons and a friend today for a week's cruise along the Atlantic seaboard in preparation for the strenuous presidential campaign ahead.

Shortly after 1 p. m. the black-hulled yawl Myth II, dependent entirely on the vagaries of the wind, was towed a half mile out and given her head. The main sail soon was hoisted and the boat moved briskly northeast toward Connecticut.

Nominee Steers Craft.

The Democratic presidential nominee steered the craft with his right hand and waved farewell with his left to the crowds on land. He studied the compass carefully and eased his charge along into a sea that was choppy but not rough. Over his head floated his personal pennant, a white half circle in a blue field, and the red and blue ensign of the New York Yacht Club.

The governor dismissed political inquiries centering around a conference he had just before his departure with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee. Farley, who will join the party tomorrow, said they had discussed the general aspects of the coming campaign, but had not referred to the exchange of telegrams with President Hoover over the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Others on Board Vessel.

The others aboard the Myth, owned by Prescott Huntington, New York banker, were James, Franklin, jr., and John Roosevelt, and George Driggs, of Boston, who took Elliott Roosevelt's place. The governor will do the cooking—but not the dishwashing—and the young men will do the manual labor.

Morris Cove Conn., July 11 (A. P.).—Running ahead of a stiff wind, Gov. Roosevelt and his party aboard the Myth II, a two-masted sailing ship, completed the first day's run from Port Jefferson and dropped their anchor 4 hours and 15 minutes after leaving.

The distance is 23 miles. Despite a rough sea, none of the five on the yawl was sick. The governor's party will spend the night here.

Leader of Chicago Gang Held in Recent Killings

Chicago, July 11 (A.P.).—George (Bugs) Moran, whose seven henchmen were killed in the St. Valentine's Day massacre of 1929, was held tonight for questioning in connection with a current gang war flare-up that has cost several lives.

Detectives who arrested the erstwhile North Side leader as he drove through the Loop in an expensive limousine were especially interested in determining if he was linked with the recent machine gun killing of George (Red) Barker, labor racketeer.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SEA SONGS FOR THE CRUISING MR. ROOSEVELT.

(After Masefield.)

I MUST go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky
And all I ask is a swift yawl and a star to steer her by;
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the deep blue waters—

II.

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clear call that will not be denied;
And all I ask is a fair day with the fresh breeze mewing—
And the late news from the press boys on what Al Smith's doing!

III.

I must go down to the seas again—to the vagrant gypsy life,
To the gull's way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife;
And all I ask is the whitecaps with their crests of cotton—
And a whole week of forgetting the Man Forgotten!

* * * *

(After Epes Sargent.)

A LIFE on the ocean wave,
A home on the rolling deep,
Where no politicians rave
And a candidate can sleep!
Like an eagle caged I pine
On the dull unchanging land;
Oh! give me the flashing brine—
(Not Bryan, you understand).

Once more a deck I stroll
On a leased swift-gliding yawl;
On Long Island Sound I roll
With no pledges to keep at all!
Through the flying foam we run
Like an ocean bird set free—
(In the spirit of Jefferson
And of Jackson democracy!)

The land is no longer in view,
The clouds have begun to frown
But under the well-known two-Thirds rule we will not go down!
As around us the waters rave
The song of our cruise shall be
A home on the ocean wave—
And the fullest pub-lic-i-ty!

* * * *

MIFFED.

"OWNEY" MADDEN, allegod racketeer, who had been ordered returned to complete a prison sentence by the high courts, couldn't be located by the police. Maybe the turn of events made him too sore to send them any souvenir postcards.

DANGEROUS ECONOMY.

The House economy committee had limited the expenses of Geneva disarmament delegates to $6 a day. This is apt to break up the conference by making golf and tennis impossible.

AL SMITH'S STATEMENT.

Now I take my pen in hand
So all my friends will understand
Just what my attitude will be Regarding Roosevelt, F. D.

II.

Should I refuse to give support
The press would cry, "The man's no sport!"
And so I'll still vote Democratic—
(Please pass the spirits aromatic!)

III.

The party I'll be loyal to—
(It hurts me more than it does you);
But Frank and John—I'll have to show 'em—
I'll just pretend I do not know 'em.

SENATE VOTE, 50 TO 25, SHELVES BINGHAM BILL TO LEGALIZE BEER

Against—Republicans, 14; Democrats, 11.

"A vote against the motion," said Senator Bingham, "was a vote in favor of beer. Thus it can be seen that, with 14 Republicans voting against, the Republican party in the against the Republican party in the Senate is wetter than the Democratic party, this despite the fact that the Democrats in their platform promised 'immediate' modification of the Volstead act.

"Immediate" Means in Future.

"The vote means," Mr. Bingham continued, "that 24 out of 37 Democratic senators believe that the word 'immediate' means some time in the future, and that only 11 think that it means now.

"Of the 21 Democratic senators who went to the Chicago convention, only 4 voted for 'immediate' consideration."

These 4, a check-up showed, were Senators Tydings, of Maryland; Bulkley, of Ohio; Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Long, of Louisiana.

The political effects of Senator Bingham's coup remain to be seen, but Republican wets were claiming last night that it would shift thousands of votes.

Having put the Democrats to the test on beer, Senator Bingham now plans to try them out on a vote on a resolution subbmitting a repeal amendment to the States.

Big Surprise in Vote.

The big surprise of yesterday's beer vote was the stand taken by Florida's two Democratic senators—Fletcher and Trammell. Both men voted for beer, although in the other three beer votes at this session they were arrayed against that beverage. Political observers concluded that the two men had learned a lesson from the recent primary defeat of Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, who was washed out of office on a wave of wet sentiment.

Another surprise was the vote of Senator James Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, who voted to send the Bingham amendment to the judiciary committee. Lewis is regarded as a wringing wet.

At the outset of yesterday's debate, Senator Bingham taunted Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, about the yawl in which he is cruising to New England. The craft is named "Myth II."

Plank is Called "Myth."

"There never was a more satisfactory boat for the Democratic candidate," said Bingham, inferring that "myth" also described the Democratic prohibition plank.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, charged that Senator Bingham was not so much interested in getting beer as he was in getting himself reelected this November.

The Virginian said he was ready to vote on a resolution submitting repeal, but he declared emphatically the Democratic convention had no right to bind members of Congress on the liquor question.

Senator Glass said the principal argument against the Bingham beer bill was the lack of knowledge as to just what constitutes an intoxicating beverage.

Content Scaled Down.

To try and meet this Democratic argument, Senator Bingham modified his beer proposal, scaling down the alcoholic content from 3.2 to 2.75 per cent, which was the strength of wartime beer. But the Democrats insisted that the Connecticut senator was not qualified to judge such matters.

"I favor a scientific inquiry to determine the question," Senator Glass said.

Senator George Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, who recently declared himself in favor of legalization of beer, yesterday took sides with the Democrats, holding that a careful study was necessary before any action was taken.

The irrepressible Huey Long told the Senate the answer to its wonderment about intoxication might be found in Mordecai's law lectures from the North Carolina Law Journal. Quoting from these, the Louisiana Kingfish recited:

"Not drunk is he who from the floor
Can rise again and drink once more;
But drunk is he who prostrate lies
And can not either drink or rise."

Troops and Fliers Hunt Child Feared Abducted

Minneapolis, July 11 (A.P.).—A company of militiamen, assisted by National Guard fliers today was ordered by Gov. F. B. Olsen to search for Leslie Delano, 20-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano, of suburban Columbia Heights, who disappeared while playing near his home Friday. Thus far officials are without a clew as to whether the child was kidnaped or wandered off into nearby swamp land and was lost.

If the former proves to be the case, they lean to the theory the baby was mistaken by his abductors for a child of one of the wealthy residents of the neighborhood. The Delanos are people of moderate circumstances.

France to Delay Debt Plea Until November

Paris, July 11 (A.P.).—France doubtless will wait until after the American presidential election before making any overtures for reduction or cancellation of her war debts to the United States.

Officials at the foreign office today were unable to say when the negotiations with Washington would start, but the impression prevailed that France would await the pleasure of the United States. That it would be difficult to accomplish anything before the election seemed perfectly understood.

Sunday Funerals Ruled Unlawful.

Lincoln, Nebr., July 11 (A.P.).—An ordinance outlawing Sunday funerals was passed today by the city council. The action was taken at behest of the City Ministerial Association, spokesmen for which set out the press of other Sabbath duties made it difficult for them to officiate at such services.

MILLS IS MENTIONED IN WET GROUP'S ROW

Is Named as Having Hand in Protest to Organization's Backing Roosevelt.

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Secretary Mills, frequently a Hoover administration spokesman, was named today as having had a hand in the protest of 64 women antiprohibitionists against their organization's resolution favoring Franklin D. Roosevelt. His name cropped up in the controversy within the ranks of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

The dynamic young Cabinet member was brought into the antiprohibition wrangle by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, former Republican national committee woman and now head of the wet group.

She said she had been informed he helped draft the protest against her executive committee's action in urging support for the New York Governor.

Participated in Discussion.

A few hours later Mrs. Cortlandt D. Barnes, one of the signers, acknowledged that Mills participated in the discussion which led to the signing of the statement.

"I talked with Mr. Mills only on the technical phase of whether or not the statement's reference to the interpretation of the Republican prohibition plank was the correct one," she said.

"Mr. Mills did not instigate the statement, which I suppose originated with me. We acted in all good feeling, with the best sentiment toward Mrs. Sabin, who now may want us to resign."

The interpretation of the Republican plank on which Mrs. Barnes said she consulted Mills follows:

"At their recent conventions both parties declared in favor of submitting to the people such an amendment (eliminating prohibition from the Federal Constitution).

No Comfort in Petition.

"The real difference between them is the course to be followed after repeal. They differ as to methods of control and regulation of the liquor traffic."

Mrs. Sabin said she could find "no comfort" in the petition of the 64 protestors, but that Bishop James Cannon, jr., and dry organizations might be able to.

The controversy was heightened by the resignation from the organization of Mrs. William W. Hoppin, former Republican coleader in the Fifteenth Assembly district; Mrs. Agnes Gifford Jones, of South Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Joseph W. Alsop, Republican kinswoman of the New York governor, and three members of the Connecticut State central Republican committee.

Hartford, Conn., July 11 (A.P.).—Three Hartford women, members of the Republican State central committee resigned today from the Women's Association for National Prohibition Reform at the request of Miss Kathrine Byrne, Republican national committee woman, because the organization's executive committee indorsed Franklin D. Roosevelt for President.

Boston, July 11 (A.P.).—Secretary of the Treasury Mills, who was named today as having had a hand in a petition of 64 women antiprohibitionists against their organization's resolution favoring Gov. Roosevelt for the Presidency, tonight said, "I did not see the petition before it was sent out."

ROOSEVELT SCORED AS LACKING REMEDY

The meeting was under the joint auspices of the Republican national committee and the Massachusetts State committee. Others on the speaking program were Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller.

Secretary Mills challenged Gov. Roosevelt "instead of indulging in vague and unsupported attacks, to state specifically what the present administration has failed to do or has done in this emergency that is open to fair criticism, and what steps he would have taken that have not been taken to meet the successive forces that have threatened to undermine and to destroy our economic structure and to bring complete disaster to our people."

"We find," said Secretary Mills regarding Roosevelt's relief program, "that, aside from the fact that he would plant trees where his running mate would plant postoffices, all Gov. Roosevelt has to say is that he favors the use of certain types of public works and the issuance of bonds. But he is not very sure, for the works are, 'insofar as possible (whatever that may mean) to be self-sustaining if they are to be financed by the issuing of bonds' and no economic end is served 'if we merely build without building for a necessary purpose.'"

Of the pledges of Gov. Roosevelt and his party for drastic economy, abolition of useless offices and consolidation of Government bureaus, Mills said "the expenditures of the State of New York increased from 1929 to 1931 by more than one-third;" that Democrats of the House voted by a large majority for "Garner's pork barrel measure;" and that "they declined to give the President the necessary authority to abolish useless bureaus."

Cherrington in Personal Call on Walter Newton

(Associated Press.)

Ernest L. Cherrington, chairman of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, spent an hour and a half at the White House yesterday in conference with Walter Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries.

His call, he said, was purely personal. He declined to speculate on whether the board will decide at its meeting here this week to support Mr. Hoover for reelection. At that time the board is to consider what attitude to take toward the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates. It already has expressed dissatisfaction with the party platforms.

Frances Dade to Be Married Soon.

Philadelphia, July 11 (A.P.).—The engagement of Frances Dade, motion picture actress and member of a prominent Philadelphia family, to Brock Van Avery, of Scarborough, N. Y., was announced today by her mother, Mrs. Ernest Spencer, of New York. They will be married in August.

FIVE YEGGS SOUGHT AFTER GUN BATTLE

Quintet Is Surprised at Safe in Winchester; Car Later Found, Blood-Stained.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 11.—Washington detectives and Winchester police tonight worked hand in hand toward apprehending five men who early today blew open the safe of the Garber Manufacturing Co. here and then engaged in a running gun battle with local police through the residential section of the city before finally eluding capture.

With the bloodstained and bullet-riddled car of the criminals retrieved after it had been wrecked about 16 miles west of here, at Cross Junction, Va., Lieut. John H. Fowler, chief of the identification department of the Washington police force, and Chief of Police C. W. Hollis, of Winchester, were attempting to gain fingerprint clews from the machine, which, it was hoped, would match with some in records of the Capital police and disclose the identity of the criminals.

Two Washingtonians and a Winchester companion were held for questioning but later released. Police said they were satisfied they had no part in the affair. The three were Perry H. Carmen, jr., 2108 K street northwest; Lucien Funk, of 618 G street northeast, and John Colvin, Winchester. They were arrested by State Policeman Bayliss in a taxicab bearing a Washington license tag, this morning, when they appeared at police headquarters and asked, "What is all the excitement about?"

Guardsmen Held Ready.

Belief that the bandits were hiding in the Virginia-West Virginia mountains west of here caused Company I, Virginia National Guard, to hold a detail of twenty men with guns in readiness at the armory here today, awaiting orders from Adjutant Gen. S. G. Waller, at Richmond, to start a man hunt.

The bandits blew off the door of the safe of the Garber Co. about 3:30 a. m. today. Residents called police, who surprised the bandits, causing them to make a break for the back door.

The burglars opened fire with .45-caliber submachine guns. Night Chief Boyd and Officer Funk fled behind trees while the bandits sprayed the trees with bullets. Officer Bowers, not near shelter, fought it out with the bandits and escaped injury, although one of the men stopped and fired point blank at him. The police car was unable to keep up with the bandits as the latter fled, three in the automobile, while two ran through the back yard of Dr. W. D. Myers.

Blood-Spattered Car Found.

Two hours later the bandit car was found at Cross Junction. The front seat was blood-spattered. Inside the car the officers found dealer's tags and a registration card issued to Lee D. Butler, Inc., of 2155 Champlain street northwest. Police also found Maryland and North Carolina sets of license plates. The former plates, carrying No. 269-020, were identified by Maryland State police as having been stolen from A. R. Feed, of College Park. The North Carolina plates bore No. 317-245.

Lee D. Butler said last night that police had informed him that the bandits' car was one which he had reported stolen five months ago. At that time the registration card and the plates were stolen with it, he said.

LAST EFFORT TO SAVE JOBS OF U. S. WORKERS DUE TODAY

acterized as "outrageous" the unequal cuts in appropriation bills severely hitting personnel in some Government bureaus while sparing these in others.

Only in the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor, and Interior Department bills did the Senate go through with its original threat to cut every supply measure 10 per cent under House figures.

As a result, the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor bill, budgeted at $130,000,000, was cut to $112,000,000, and the $57,000,000 budget estimates for Interior were reduced to $45,000,000.

May Face Longer Furloughs.

Last week President Thomas E. Campbell of the Civil Service Commission said workers in these departments may have to take one or two months payless furloughs in addition to the one-month payless lay-off provided in the economy bill, if discharges are to be avoided.

Senator Copeland who originally proposed that the 10 per cent cut be applied to the total of all appropriation bills if the policy was to be followed, now holds it only logical that it be abandoned for all departments if it has been ignored in some.

Labor units and organized farm groups are backing him in his latest move, he said. He is particularly anxious to avoid widespread curtailment in Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce activities that must result from the slashes, he said.

Senator Shipstead charged that a "grave injustice" has been done Government Printing Office employes, not only in the economy act, but in Comptroller General McCarl's ruling against giving these workers paid leave accumulated in 1932.

He asked that his resolution be laid on the table, so he may bring it to a vote at any time. It reads:

"Resolved, That all employes of the Government Printing Office shall be granted during the fiscal year 1933 such leave with pay as was earned by them during the fiscal year 1932, which has not been taken prior to July 1, 1932."

Still lying on the table is the resolution of Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, moving the repeal of that section of the economy act requiring discharge of husband or wife, where both are employed in the Federal service.

Petition Is Forwarded.

The petition of the League of the American Civil Service against the five-day week was forwarded to President Hoover by Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the league.

She charged that during the present fiscal year employes will be forced to work overtime because of nonfilling of vacancies; that they will be prevented from going home to vote in November unless they take extra leave without pay; that "the elimination of the 30 days annual leave which has heretofore been granted for rest and rebuilding of tired bodies and minds, and which always has been considered so necessary, would see the physical breakdown of many valued employes."

The petition asked President Hoover to issue an executive order permitting workers to take their payless leave on the same basis annual leave has been administered in former years.

First Cut Friday.

Employes Friday will draw their first cut in pay under the economy act, amounting generally to 8.3 per cent. Unless House and Senate War Department conferees get together on differences in the Army supply bill, there is some question about war personnel drawing any pay at all. In such an emergency it is probable a continuing resolution would be passed. Yesterday the conferees submitted a partial report on the bill, with the House provision for retiring 2,000 Army officers still in disagreement. This is the only one of the supply bills that has not become law.

Members of Congress will not draw their 10 per cent cut in pay until August 3, the sergeant at arms of the House disclosed yesterday. Members are paid the third day of every month, with the fiscal year starting July 3. They will receive $750 instead of the usual monthy check for $833.33.

Postoffice officials yesterday indicated the Comptroller General's recent ruling may result in increased administrative costs in the Postoffice field service. The department has "peak" loads at Easter and Christmas, usually met by an increased working force. As a result of the ruling, the department must furlough workers for several days at a time during the slack periods, or, if the furloughs are spread, hire additional substitutes at great expense during the peak periods, it was said at the department.

TRAFFIC CARE PLEA MADE BY COL. BLISS

Pedestrians Who Day Dream and Reckless Motorists Are Scored.

An appeal to automobile drivers and pedestrians in Washington to cooperate in reduction of accidents by paying greater heed to traffic regulations and driving was made last night by Col. Edward G. Bliss, of the board of directors of the local Chamber of Commerce, in a radio address under auspices of the District Traffic Advisory Council.

Col. Bliss laid stress on personal knowledge of automobile driving; accurate knowledge of traffic regulations; alertness of drivers and pedestrians; keeping automobiles in proper condition and regard for the community reputation.

"Every driver and every pedestrian should give thought constantly to the safety of himself and others," Col. Bliss said. "The traffic-laden street of today is no place for day dreaming. Care in crossing streets by the pedestrian, and care in making turns by the motorist—in fact, eternal vigilence on the part of both—is essential if accidents are to be reduced."

Col. Bliss said that success has been had in cooperation from organized groups of street users, but that it has proved more difficult to reach the great body of unorganized pedestrians and automobile operators. The speaker observed that Washington has a higher average of intelligence than other cities, and in view of this there should be little trouble, provided cooperation is given, in reducing accidents.

A solemn requiem mass was sung in the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Maria Ward Curley, mother of the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore. Mrs. Curley died Thursday at her home, Golden Island, County Athlone, Ireland. She was 91 years old. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, was celebrant. He was assisted by the Rev. F. X. Cavanagh and the Rev. S. A. Szyz, who acted as deacon and subdeacon, respectively.

Present in the sanctuary were the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P.; the Rev. G. C. Reilly, O. P., and the Rev. J. F. Monroe, O. P., representing the Dominican House of Studies at Catholic University. Francis McCann, of Catholic University, was master of ceremonies.

The Immaculate Conception senior choir, with Miss Florence Yocum, soprano, and Miss Kathryn Bowers, contralto, as soloists, and the boys' sanctuary choir sang a special musical arrangement.

Capper Seeks Board To License Engineers

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, yesterday moved to establish a board of professional engineers to regulate engineering practices in the District.

The board, which would have the power to examine and license engineers in the District, would be comprised of five professional engineers, appoined by the Commissioners. Engineers would be required to pay a $25 registration fee.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Summer Make-Up Is Subtler and More Lasting.

THAT'S a rather large order: "Summer make-up must be subtler and more lasting." But if you'd achieve new heights of distinction in the world of beauty that combinaton is precisely what you must strive for.

The deep shades of rouge, the heavy powders, the vividly painted lip that may be permissible for winter's gay evenings, are entirely "de trop," too, too much "in the good old summertime." Certainly a too vivid make-up too heavily applied is entirely out of keeping with the lightness of summer—basking in the sun, swimming in the surf, the frail pastels and the thin materials of summer's raiments.

Be Natural.

"Be natural" is the watchword of those who guide the feminine world in the subtle art of make-up. And what an art it is! With the proper shades of rouge, powder, lip coloring and eyeshadow the proverbially plain woman can be transformed into a really lovely creature, her good features enhanced, her poor points skillfully minimized, and a lie given to Dame Nature who claims she can still go on making ugly ducklings. The right summer make-up can do even more than that. It can make one look cool and refreshing; a crisp and dainty picture.

If You Plan to Tan.

Those who are acquiring a gradual but definite dark coat of tan should be sure to change their powder and rouge as the skin tone changes. Rouge should have a little more brown or brick base to it. Powder should be a creamy sunbronze. Women who have learned the ingenious trick of mixing and blending their powder at home can keep a box of their usual shade on hand and a box of deep tan and gradually, as the tan of the skin deepens add more of the tan powder to the natural shade.

Preserving the Porcelain Hue.

For those who are refusing to tan even slightly, but prefer to preserve the skin's porcelain loveliness, the rouge and powder for summer should be a bit more delicate in shade and more lightly applied than during winter weather. Blondes, for instance, should choose a clear, rosy rouge to give them a crispy, fresh look. The lipstick should be rosy, too, and not heavily applied. The mouth is coming in for less accenting during the summer. Powder should be a creamy natural or a light and rosy rachel shade. For brunettes a slightly deeper lipstick and rouge, a medium or raspberry shade and a true rachel powder. Eyes are the sparkling accents, these days, and special care should be exercised in the choice of the right shade and the proper blending of these high eye notes.

What Today Means

"CANCER."

IF today is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. and from 10:10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:20 p. m.

An exciting, but not necessarily pleasant day is augured for July 12. The astrological influences will promote irritability and touchiness, and the pressure may be reduced through an exhalation of fiery words which will create hard feelings. Not much worth-while grist will be sent to the mill.

Children born on this July 12 will have avaricious natures, not only for knowledge, but will have an eye open for ways and means to pick up a dime or so. They will have quick and relentless memories, a flair for figures, intense likes and dislikes, and a keen sense of humor.

A well-ordered life, conducted with the utmost propriety, is the reputation which you enjoy if born on July 12. The rigorous monotony of good conduct seldom bores you, and you have little desire to look into the land of adventure. You are scrupulously attentive to detail, practical, and always busy—never too busy to attend to everything. You intend to do your duty at whatever the cost to yourself or others. You put people into two types, those that are good and those that are not good, according to your own standards, and the latter you feel free to damn.

You like to keep by yourself and appear less amiable than you really are. You are quite lively and less stilted of mien when in your own home and strangers are not about. There is nothing cheap about you and although you are a conservative buyer, you know how to choose good stuff. You live carefully, think deeply and have a respect for your physical well-being. You will always try to ward off illnesses and may suffer seriously from not giving in when you really are under the weather. Like so many people, you believe yourself indispensable to your job, to your home or to something. You are a very good talker when in the mood, but you are often rather morose and heavily "silent." The latter part of your life will be the happiest, probably, because you will have grown more tolerant and friendly.

Successful people born on July 12:

George Eastman, kodak manufacturer.

Sir William Osler, professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins University.

Irving T. Bush, president of Bush Terminal.

Lord Birkenhead, English politician.

Arthur Holbrook, physician.

Clara Louise Kellogg, soprano.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

LO! THE POOR BREAD BASKET.

ONE of Shakespeare's seven ages of man is described as "In fair round belly with good capon lined....."

The myriad minded playwright evidently considered that nature was only taking its course when a rounded protuberance in the midsection developed in the course of middle life. It is not so now, and if the great dramatist was right the average man of middle life is a better physical specimen now than he was in that day. Our very extensive modern literature on girth control is pretty good evidence that we want to keep on improving the average.

Let us not wholly condemn the "fair round belly." In the first place not every man that has a midsection protuberance has a large girth measure. Many men are swaybacked. Some are so because of spinal curvatures, while some are that way because they have been taught to stand with their shoulders thrown back. Swaybacked persons have prominent abdomens even though they do not have large waistlines.

Again, short-bodied persons are likely to have prominent abdomens not wholly dependent on obesity. If a man must accumulate adipose tissue he could select a worse place in which to store his savings. In that location fat is not very much in the way and a fairly prominent protuberance is not a bar to a certain degree of athletic prowess of a kind. There are a few professional baseball players who, while not exactly of Falstaffian proportions, have had enough of a midsection to make it difficult for them to see their toes. One that the writer remembers was a very good slugger when at the bat, ran bases rapidly, in addition to being able to slide on his face without skinning his shins. He played in the outfield and could cover ground very well.

Perhaps the most noted of all swimming instructors has enough abdomen for two men. While he trains from the shore or sits on a box in a boat, if he follows his man in a race he is capable of jumping into the water and performing as well as any one else. Among long distance swimmers a fair number of high grade performers have more equator than the rules call for, and professional wrestlers are not exactly sylphs.

Fat in the legs is not only dead weight made worse by leverage, but it crowds the muscles. Fat in the arms is even worse for an athlete. Fat in the heart region of the chest is worst of all. But fat around the coils of the digestive tract is about as much out of the way as it is possible for fat to be. Nature provides an abdominal apron, called the omentum. This is a fine structure for fat holding purposes. In prominent abdomens the omentum is heavily laden with fat.

Nevertheless, nobody wants a protruding abdomen, and tomorrow's story will deal with methods of removal.

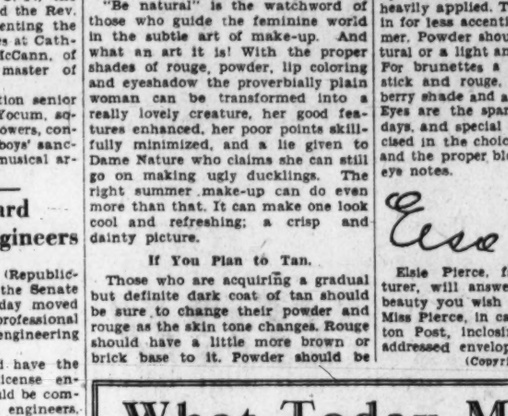
SCORING THE SLAM TRICK.

AS Mr. Charles H. Weissenbach, the holder of the South hand pictured below, admits, the bidding of this Slam was optimistic in the extreme. Although the combined hands held 7 honor-tricks, the singleton heart in the North hand was a warning of the duplication of values, and the weakness of the chosen trump suit was such as to make probable that a trick might be lost there as well. However, Mr. Weissenbach explained the bidding by saying that it was the last rubber of the evening, and he was considerably minus on the score. Probably that is as good an explanation as any offered. The play, however, needs no excuse, as throughout Mr. Weissenbach's handling of the cards was sparkling, indeed.

North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1♠	Pass
2♡	Pass	3NT	Pass
4♣	Pass	5♣	Pass
5♡	Pass	6♣	Dbl.
Pass	Pass	Redbl.	Pass
Pass	Pass

There is no occasion for further comment on the bidding, which I have already discussed.

Against the redoubled club contract, West opened the singleton heart and when South surveyed his combined holdings, he momentarily regretted his optimism. However, he manfully went to work, winning the first trick with the Ace in his own hand, realizing that he must use Dummy's trumps to some extent in ruffing out his losing hearts. As the Queen of hearts was probably a singleton, he at once returned the suit, West ruffing with the 9 and Dummy overuffing with the Ace. A club was now led from Dummy, and the finesse of the Knave held, West's Ten dropping and thus marking the remaining clubs in the East hand. South now led the third round of hearts, ruffing with a trump in Dummy. Next the Ace and King of spades were led from Dummy, followed by the 6, upon which East discarded a heart and Declarer ruffed with the club 4. The King of hearts was then led, West discarding a spade and Dummy a diamond. This was followed with the Ten, which was ruffed with Dummy's last trump. The Ace of diamonds in Dummy was then laid down, and Mr. Weissenbach's contract was secure. To the eleventh trick, the Ten of spades was led. East now held the diamond King and the club Queen-eight. He elected to ruff the spade with the 8 spot. South discarded his losing diamond, and then cashed the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with his trumps.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Hands containind 7 honor-tricks should not be bid for a Slam when the players can see danger of duplication of values, which makes the attainment of the Slam improbable in actual play. The partnership holding should not only eliminate the possibility of losing tricks to adversely held Aces, but should assure sufficient playing tricks which ordinarily requires favorable distribution.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

Watermelon need not always be served "au naturel"—in wedges or slices with the rind on. The bright red flesh against the green rind undoubtedly makes an appeal to the eye as well as to the inner man, but one may use blocks of watermelon with other colorful fruits, just as fruit cup is planned for its decorative effect, obtained by using fruits of contrasting colors as well as flavors that go well together.

Today's suggestion is an especially good dessert combination—watermelon cubes with pineapple. Either fresh or canned pineapple may be used. The vivid red of the watermelon and the pale yellow of the pineapple make a gay color scheme which might be carried out with a centerpiece of red or pink roses of just the right shade, or pink sweet peas and some of the cream or pale yellow summer flowers.

Other good fruit combinations with watermelon cubes or balls are suggested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: Watermelon with cantaloupe, watermelon with sliced oranges and blackberries, watermelon with peaches or bartlett pears. These combinations may also be used, like fruit cup, for an appetizer course in small portions.

The watermelon should be chilled for several hours, and then cut up at least an hour before serving time. Remove the seeds, and keep cold. Cut pineapple in convenient size pieces and chill separately. It hardly needs saying that any juice from the pineapple can be utilized for summer drinks or jellied desserts. Put the watermelon and pineapple together carefully on the plates so as not to break the pieces and do not serve too much.

WEST VIRGINIA DEAD IN FLOOD NEARS 20

150 Tiny Homes of Miners Are Swept Away by Two Rampant Creeks.

Charleston, W. Va., July 11 (A.P.).—Two streams sent roaring out of their banks by heavy rains swept through a dozen mining villages early today, causing a death toll estimated at from 12 to 20 persons.

Residents along Paint and Armstrong creeks, in Kanawha and Fayette counties, were roused long before dawn by churning waters, and many of them were unable to escape before their little homes were flooded.

Wrecked communications prevented an accurate check of the death list, but the Kanawha County engineers' office reported twelve bodies recovered.

At least 150 of the tiny cottages usually occupied by miners fell before the torrent, and the Red Cross estimated 800 were made homeless.

Cling to Wreckage.

Dawn found a dozen or more refugees clinging desperately to improvised rafts and pieces of their homes. Bodies of others were found on banks where receding flood waters had left them.

All up and down the wreckage-strewn valleys there were refugees carrying the few remnants of their personal effects saved while muddy waters swirled through their homes.

The Kanawha River, into which both creeks empty, bore mute evidence of the havoc. Pieces of houses, furniture, chairs, telephone poles and other debris covered the river to such an extent navigation was almost impossible, except in small boats.

Autos Are Destroyed.

On Armstrong Creek there was the wildest confusion. At some points shattered houses were piled together in groups of four and five. Automobiles were tossed upon hillsides wrecked beyond repair.

State police and Red Cross workers went out to the flood area, but travel was impossible, except on foot, into the territory between Burnwell and Kingston, where the greatest damage was done.

The county engineer established food supply camps on Paint Creek at Gallagher and other rescue stations were set up at Handley and Standard. The Red Cross sent out several truckloads of food, blankets and clothing.

hazard campaigns. To me, it's bad business, and I, for one, will not join forces with the main army under such conditions."

"This gang," Robertson said, "followed us to Phoenix, Ariz., where I had men place money in the contributions box, which was supposed to provide food for us. The money was never turned over to mess fund, and I kicked the outfit out of my division."

Capt. Everett said last night: "I know definitely that twelve truckloads of food were collected in Atlantic City for us. Also, a sum of $200 was contributed for the use of the army. Neither the food nor the money reached any of the bonus army camps."

None Empowered to Collect.

Capt. Everett said collections of food and money were being taken daily in Military Park, Newark, N. J., none of which has been received here. "The food has never gotten further than Trenton, N. J.," he said.

The emissaries of the army, who are attempting to counteract the activities of the impostors, Capt. Everett said, are working with police in the cities where the bogus collections are being made. No one is authorized to collect for the army, he said, unless he has a commission from the national headquarters, with the seal of the army affixed.

Scores of truckloads of supplies have also disappeared after being collected in Chicago and New York.

Robertson's outfit is quartered at Third street and Missouri avenue, only a few blocks from the Capitol. Waters expressed regret that the group "does not see fit to affiliate with the B. E. F."

Hines Visits Hoover.

The exodus of the Bonus Army continued unabated last night in spite of coercive tactics employed by individual veterans to dissuade their comrades from going home.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, Veterans' Administrator, announced last night that 1,101 veterans had applied for loans on their adjusted service compensation certificates so as to get to their homes. Of this number, 979 were given transportation slips and 15 left by automobile. The other applications await disposition.

Gen. Hines visited the White House yesterday and reported to President Hoover that "much progress" had been made in evacuating the veterans. He estimated the number of men in the camps as 7,975. Veteran leaders claim there are 22,000 in the Capital, while police say there are about 11,000.

Complain of Threats.

Veterans complained yesterday that they were being threatened by other veterans after they had made their applications for loans under the bill signed by President Hoover, appropriating $100,000 to be used to provide transportation and subsistence to their homes.

Threats were made, they said, as they awaited decision on their applications outside of the Veterans Administration office. Guards were provided for them, and they are now awaiting approval slips within the doors of the office. Food is being given liberally to these applicants.

Most of the men say their reason for leaving the Capital is the fear that disorder will occur in the camps.

Harold B. Foulkrod, former legislative representative for the army, who was accused by Commander in Chief Waters of "selling out" the army because he applied for transportation home, yesterday accused Waters of trying to organize a third party so that the "Hoover protest vote would be split."

Led by Girl, 20.

Waters flew to Newark, N. J., where he made an address last night over Radio Station WOR to enlist funds and new recruits for the army. He will also speak in Hoboken, N. J., and Camden, N. J.

Waters yesterday declined offers of Farmer-Labor party leaders to nominate him for the Vice Presidency as a running mate to Jacob S. Coxey, Mayor of Massillon, Ohio. In declining the nomination, he said, "My sole objective now is passage of bonus legislation. I can not forsake this cause for any political job."

About 200 veterans arrived yesterday from Nevada and Wisconsin. They were led by an attractive 20-year-old girl, who led the parade of the veterans from the Potomac freight yards to billets at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue.

The War Veterans of America, with headquarters at 2626 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, last night adopted a resolution urging the veterans to remain here until next December, when further action on the bonus is expected. Recruiting officers reported from New York and Ohio that 1,100 veterans are en route to the Capital.

B. E. F. Warned Only 3 Days Left for Tickets

Members of the Bonus Expeditionary Force are reminded that only three days remain for them to avail themselves of an opportunity to obtain transportation home. The warning was issued yesterday by the Veterans' Administration, which has the job of dispensing the tickets.

Under terms of the $100,000 appropriation passed by Congress, time for making application for tickets home expires at midnight Thursday. The administration is authorized to furnish tickets and 75 cents per day subsistence.

The Red Cross is providing the same care for wives and children of veterans whose applications are approved by the Veterans' Administration.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

NEW YORK, July 11.—It's a perennially new story—the excitement in the air before every new showing of the Haute Couture in Paris. Perhaps that perennial isn't just the word—but you know what I mean. I mean that no matter what happens, no matter how depressed nor how busy having wars and things the world may be, and no matter how many years on years repeat the same gesture—the world, and especially Paree, holds its breath from about now on until the August collections of the new mode are shown. And does the same thing in January, as regularly as Auguats and Januaries roll around!

This year there are rumors—whispers, as wee Mamzelle says, that have some importance. 'Tis whispered that depressions and "cris" notwithstanding, the fetes de elegance that closed the Paris season in June of this year were so successful that miladi will come out this winter in more formal, more elegant and more expensive raiment than ever.

Which sounds the death knell for the little velvet evening jacket, for one thing. Oh, wearable, to be sure—but past its prime as a fashion event. The complete evening wrap, long and elaborate, will be the mode, 'tis said. Alas for our pocketbooks!

Less importance will be attached to wider shoulder effects. I am merely predicting now. And skirt lengths and waistlines will remain as they are. Stripes will be more modish, which is somewhat of an innovation for the autumn.

And all styles that lend themselves to walking will be emphasized—which covers a lot of territory, my deah. Just watch and see!

But it's still summer, and in your spare finger time it would be fun to make yourself another beach hat, now wouldn't it? Sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will tell you how to make this. And it tells you how to make a chic beach bag, too. And a beach dress, very simple and easy to make. 'Tis a good leaflet, whether for this summer or next. So better send for it!

H. M. ROSE, SENATE SECRETARY, IS DEAD

Only Employe of Body Holding Office By Law Expires at 74.

Henry Martin Rose, the only employe of the Senate holding office by law, died suddenly last night at his home in the Clifton Terrace Apartments. He was 74 years old and had been assistant secretary of the Senate since 1905.

Mr. Rose had been in ill health for eight years. He was taken ill last week, but had apparently recovered and at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon chatted with the family physician and appeared to be feeling well. A maid found him in a semiconscious condition at 5 p. m. and he died shortly afterward.

He was born in Hornellsville, N. Y., March 16, 1858, but moved to Michigan at an early age with his father, a minister. He graduated from Kalamazoo College and the Baptist Seminary located near Fenton, Mich.

After leaving school he became publisher of the Benton Harbor Palladium and later engaged in newspaper work in Grand Rapids and Detroit. He was engrossing and enrolling clerk of the Michigan House of Representatives from 1877 to 1899.

Mr. Rose came to Washington in 1895 as secretary to Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan.

He declined an appointment of President Roosevelt as collector of internal revenue in Grand Rapids and was given a legislative appointment as assistant secretary of the Senate, and his name was written in the statute of appointment. It had been carried annually in the legislative appropriation bills since, making him the only Senate employe holding office by law.

Mr. Rose is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rena Rose; a son, Willis, of New York; a daughter, Maybelle, of Beverly Hills, Calif.; a brother, Ernest, collector of customs at Grand Rapids, and a sister, Mrs. Alice Kimball, of Grand Rapids.

The body will lie in state at the Hines funeral parlors, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest, this afternoon and tonight. Funeral arrangements will be completed on arrival of his son. Interment will be in Grand Rapids, in accordance with his expressed wish.

OBSEQUIES FOR T. F. COOK.

Mass Will Be Said at Sacred Heart for Retired Deputy Marshal.

Funeral services for Thomas Francis Cook, 78 years old, a retired deputy United States marshal, will be held at the home of his son, Joseph P. Cook, 1427 Van Buren street northwest, tomorrow morning prior to mass in the Shrine of the Sacred Heart.

Mr. Cook retired July 1 after having served for 38 years as a deputy. He was apparently in good health last Saturday, when he visited his former office, but he was taken ill shortly afterward and died yesterday. Besides the son with whom he made his home, he is survived by another son, Oswald M. Cook, and four grandchildren.

C. N. GREGORY FUNERAL.

Funeral services for Charles Noble Gregory, international lawyer and former dean of the George Washington University Law School, who died Sunday night at his home, 2114 Bancroft place northwest, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today. The body will be taken to Madison, Wis., for burial.

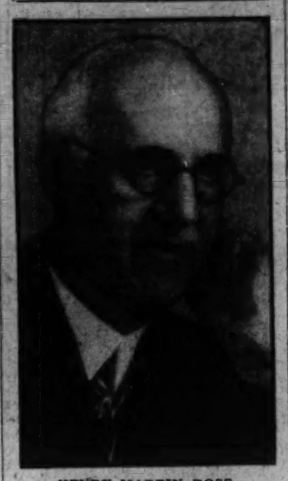
Kolderup, Norwegian Consul, Dies.

Seattle, July 11 (A.P.).—Thomas H. Kolderup, 64, dean of the consular corps here and Norwegian consul for 26 years, died today after a short illness. He was born in Bergen, Norway, in 1868, and came to the United States whne he was 20.

SECRETARY DIES



HENRY MARTIN ROSE.

Mrs. Lela Toole Burial Is Today

Rites Will Be Conducted From Bolton Hall at Martinsburg.

Burial will be conducted in Martinsburg, W. Va., this afternoon for Mrs. Lela Genevieve Broome Toole, descendant of prominent Maryland and Virginia families, who died at Takoma Park Sanitarium Saturday night. Mrs. Toole made her home in Washington with her son, Edward B. Toole, of 2676 Brandywine street northwest, vice president of A. S. Goulden & Co., Inc.

The services will be held at Bolton Hall, the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Emmert. Mrs. Toole was born in Martinsburg. She was the widow of Halsey B. Toole. Her parents were the late William H. and Mary Jane Boarman Broome. On her maternal side she was descended from the Boarmans of Maryland. One of her ancestors was Admiral Charles Boarman, who served with distinction in the war of 1812. He was commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard in 1852.

On the paternal side she was a direct descendant of Col. John Broome, of New York, first alderman of New York, at one time city treasurer there and president of the commerce chamber. During the Revolution Col. Broome advanced sums to Congress for various purposes and declined reward for either his military or financial assistance. She is survived by another son, Charles B. Toole, New York City.

WORLD BANK CALLS FOR RETURN TO GOLD

Directors of Britain, Japan and Sweden, Off Standard, Back Action.

Basel, Switzerland, July 11 (A.P.).—A call for return to the gold standard was issued today by the directors of the Bank for International Settlements with the approval of the representatives of Great Britain, Japan and Sweden, which are off gold.

The concurrence of the British, Japanese and Swedish representatives was taken as an indication that their governments intend to return to gold soon.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England and the British member of the board, was not present, but his alternate voted for the gold resolution with Mr. Norman's approval. This was the first public indication of the stand of the Bank of England since the nation went off gold last fall.

The gold resolution, adopted by unanimous vote of the board of directors, took on added significance because it came on the heels of the Lausanne agreement virtually ending reparations.

The resolution declared that to restore economic normality it will be necessary for that agreement to be followed by "a satisfactory solution of the war debts." This phrase, it was explained subsequently, was not aimed at the United States alone.

Support Urged for Farm Bill.

Pierre, S. Dak., July 11 (A.P.).—Gov. Warren E. Green today wired the governors of the 21 States interested principally in production of wheat, coston and hogs, urging them to create support for the domestic allotment farm relief bill now before Congress. The telegram was also sent to President Hoover and South Dakota's delegation in Washington.

Old Age Reverses Trend And Now Caters to Youth

By JOHN J. DALY

CENTENARIANISM is dying out in this country. In its total population of more than 120,000,000 people, America claims only 3,964 persons who have entered their one-hundredth year. The dropping off in centenarianism in the past decade has been at the rate of 7.1 per cent, according to figures released by the Census Bureau. In the 1920 census there were 4,267 former boys and girls who had attained the ripe age of 100 years.

These figures, of course, are probably not 100 per cent correct. Some of the old girls, as girls will, may have falsified their age, and some of the old boys just wouldn't admit it.

However, there is here a significant sign of the times. "A short life and a merry one!" is the motif of America. "Step on the gas!" is the slogan that puts the skids under most prospective centenarians. Then, again, most of the good folk have lost all ambition to reach the century mark. It is not quite respectable, in these days, to attain such an age. No one nowadays pays homage to an old man or an old woman whose faces are traced with etchings by the hand of time.

* * * *

NO one goes to see the old folks any more; granted that anybody admits being old. It just isn't done. Most of the female centenarians, wearing short skirts and bobbed hair, are running around disguised as flappers, and getting away with it. The night clubs are full of 'em, and most of 'em full of the night clubs. Most of the male centenarians are being arrested for speeding and joy riding; or, they are taking up aviation. The rocking chair brigade has been disbanded.

And so America, because these Old-Timers disclaim all the honor and glory that once went with dignified old age, is now losing its centenarians. Centenarians, in another decade, will be completely out of style.

Since youth will not come to old age, to pay its respects, old age goes to giddy youth. With painted cheeks and penciled eyebrows, the old folks are giving the younger generation a run for its money.

The exertion, of course, takes its toll, decimating the ranks of the centenarians, for it still remains true that the first hundred years are the hardest.

Blood Transfusions Fail to Save Young Woman Hurt in Fall.

Miss Ruth M. Gaither, 19 years old, of near Gaithersburg, Md., died yesterday at Montgomery County General Hospital. Death resulted from internal injuries suffered in a fall at her home July 3. She had been an employe of the Montgomery County Treasurer's office.

Several blood transfusions were resorted to in an effort to save the young woman's life. Her father, the late Stanley D. Gaither, died about a year ago while driving his automobile.

Miss Gaither is survived by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Gaither, and two sisters. Funeral services will be held at the residence tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Burial will be in Forest Oak Cemetery, Gaithersburg.

TRICKERY AT LAUSANNE.

The much-advertised gesture of renunciation and forgiveness of Germany by the Lausanne negotiators is now found to be a fraud. Premier Herriot of France, declaring that France has heard with emotion the story of the sufferings of Germany, and trying to make it appear that France had concurred in forgiving Germany for the sake of world peace and good will among men, now turns up at Paris with a secret agreement in his pocket, in which it is stipulated that the Lausanne agreement shall have no force unless the United States first cancels the war debts.

Prime Minister MacDonald is credited with authorship of the brilliant piece of chicanery which is now setting nations by the ears, and which doubtless will cause the downfall of Herriot. Mr. MacDonald is reported to have said that he was willing to proceed with the cancellation of reparations, trusting to America to make a corresponding cancellation, but that France and Belgium would not trust America. Those governments insisted that the United States must first cancel the debts before they would ratify the agreement with Germany.

"If the United States finds the Lausanne agreement good," said M. Herriot upon returning to Paris, "and if a satisfactory arrangement concerning debts can be reached, the Lausanne agreement on reparations will be ratified and will come into full effect. If that is not the case, everything is reserved." In an interview M. Herriot said: "Everything is now subordinated to an agreement with America."

This action will put an end to Herroit's regime. It is contrary to the spirit of the Hoover-Laval statement, which prefigured a settlement by Europe of its problems before opening the question of debts owed by European nations to America.

The refusal of the United States to cancel the debts will become painfully apparent to France. There is no reason why the debt of France should be reduced, since she is able to pay. When the determination of the United States is thoroughly understood in France an outburst against Herriot will inevitably occur, because he has signed a document which releases Germany and acknowledges that France is not warranted in demanding large reparations. He will lay stress upon the fact that this arrangement will not become effective until the United States cancels the debt owed by France, but nevertheless he has given away much of France's case against Germany. The Young agreement can not be made effective again.

The effect upon Americans of the secret attempt to force this Government's hand is unfortunate. Another stealthy and utterly selfish agreement aimed at the United States has been exposed, and it is wrapped in hypocritical expressions of solicitude for Germany and world welfare. Prime Minister MacDonald loses in public respect for his part in this shady transaction, while Premier Herriot merely invites his own downfall by his double-dealing.

Chancellor von Papen will be fortunate if he does not lose his official head. He is now in the position of having been a dupe of Great Britain and France. He glorified the Lausanne agreement as an accomplished fact whereby Germany would be relieved of reparations and inferentially of the charge of war guilt. Now Germany discovers that everything done at Lausanne is subject to a secret "gentleman's agreement," aimed at forcing the hand of the United States. Germany gets no concessions unless the United States first permits France, a perfectly solvent debtor, to evade payment of her debt. When the German people grasp the full force of the trick that has been played upon Von Papen they are likely to dismiss him as entirely too guileless to cope with the hard-boiled "gentlemen" who have double-crossed Germany and are trying to double-cross the United States.

So international relations go from bad to worse, thanks to the marplots whose work at Lausanne and Geneva reveal that certain governments are trying to evade honest debts while devoting immense tax revenues to excessive armaments. Public opinion in the United States is shocked and disgusted with the revelations. The determination to make solvent debtors pay their debts is shared by all parties in this country.

NOW FOR GENUINE RELIEF.

A new relief program is in process of formation on Capitol Hill as a result of President Hoover's veto. Speaker Garner has indicated that relief will not be further delayed by any attempt on his part to incorporate in the new bill the obnoxious features which caused yesterday's veto. Congress should be able to send a reasonable measure to the White House at once and adjourn before the end of the week.

In his veto message President Hoover outlined the essentials of a sound relief measure on which the Democratic and Republican parties can agree. Had it not been for Speaker Garner's insistence that the Treasury be opened to every person in need of money, a relief measure agreeable to both Congress and the President would now be on the statute books. Congress has wasted two weeks as a result of the Speaker's obduracy, but that will not substantially change the outcome of the relief fight, because a large majority in Congress favors the President's program.

The veto message is a vigorous denunciation of the Garner scheme. "With the utmost seriousness," President Hoover said, "I urge the Congress to enact a relief measure, but I can not approve the measure before me, fraught as it is with the possibilities of misfeasance and special privileges, so impracticable of administration, so dangerous to public credit, and so damaging to our whole conception of governmental relations to the people as to bring far more distress than it will cure." Privately most Democrats in the Senate and many in the House agree with this condemnation of the Garner plan. The measure was sent to the White House only to save face for the Democratic vice presidential candidate.

President Hoover wins his fight for relief that will preserve economic institutions affected with a public interest and that will create employment. Speaker Garner has been beaten in his demand for loans to every one and a pork-barrel for struggling politicians.

TEARING UP THE PLATFORM.

Dry Democratic senators from the South kicked over their party traces yesterday, mutilating Senator Bingham's bill to bring back beer. In disregard of the beer plank written into the Democratic platform at Chicago, 24 Democratic votes were recorded against the return of beer. Only 11 weak Democratic voices supported the Chicago pledge for "immediate modification of the Volstead law".

Before the vote was taken Democrats made a frantic effort to explain the dryness of their party in the Senate in violation of the Chicago platform. They believe that more study should be given to the return of beer. But the Democrats at Chicago did not offer any such alibi. They demanded beer "immediately". They laughed at the Republican party because it was not willing to commit its nominees and its members to either side of this controversial question. Yet 14 Republican votes were cast in favor of the Bingham amendment. Apparently the Democratic party is wetter than the Republican party in profession, but drier when votes in Congress are counted.

Some Democrats protested that they are not ready to vote for beer until a scientific study has been made to determine what is and what is not intoxicating. In deference to their squeamishness Senator Bingham reduced the quality of his beer to mere slop. But still most of the Democrats were afraid of it. The only beer they favor is the political froth in the platform.

GOVERNMENT FOR INDIA.

With 31,000 political prisoners in jail in India the disturbances have been reduced and convictions that reached nearly 18,000 in February declined to less than 4,000 in May. Formal announcement was made in London, however, that the emergency ordinances which expired this month would be continued, since the civil disobedience campaign, though greatly diminished, had not been called off, and attempts were still made to boycott British goods, damage government property and raise disturbances.

Meanwhile work on formulation of plans for constitutional government in India has proceeded in London. The reports of the three fact-finding committees sent to India have been received and the definite procedure contemplated will be announced shortly after Prime Minister MacDonald's return from the continental conferences. Certain steps have already been decided upon. In default of an agreement between the Hindus and Moslems the British government will make its own decision upon the much mooted communal question.

In connection with the all-important matter of constitutional advance the consultative committee would be reassembled in India, while in London the Lords and Commons would appoint a joint committee empowered to call Indians into consultation and consider government proposals. Finally it is intended that in a single bill provisions will be made concerning both provincial autonomy and plans for an All-India Federation. This proposal appears subject only to agreement on the part of the India states to join in a federal system that would include the various safeguards discussed at great length at the round table conferences. In presenting the outline of the plans to Parliament the government gave assurance that at every stage of the proceedings there would be the fullest consultation with Indians, including the Indian states.

Commenting on the exposition of the government's contemplated action the London Times says the declaration of policy is a courageous and frank attempt to accelerate procedure, and at the same time to maintain the closest cooperation with constructive Indian opinion to the very end.

HAGUE VS. HAGUE.

Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, could not say anything too violent or derogatory of Gov. Roosevelt before the nomination. He described the plan to abolish the two-thirds rule "a traitorous movement," and asserted that "any man who encourages this traitorous movement shows himself unworthy of the highest office of the United States." Mayor Hague accused Gov. Roosevelt of bad faith in opposing the election of Jouett Shouse as permanent chairman. Throughout the preconvention campaign Mayor Hague declared that Gov. Roosevelt could not possibly be elected if nominated, that he was the weakest candidate the Democrats could nominate, and that he could not carry a single State east of the Mississippi river.

Now Mayor Hague eats his words, and tries to explain that they were uttered only for political purposes. He undertakes to support Gov. Roosevelt, and asserts that New Jersey will help to send Roosevelt to the White House.

When did Mayor Hague speak sincerely? When did he expect the public to have some confidence in his word? Was he speaking in good faith when he attacked Roosevelt, or is he now speaking in good faith when he supports Roosevelt?

It is not often that even a politician nowadays deliberately destroys the value of what he says. Mayor Hague apparently wishes the public to regard his utterances as subject to reversal without notice. Therefore, what he says has no importance whatever.

DEPORT RED AGITATORS.

One of the most incomprehensible features of Soviet Russia's experiment in human relations is the world-wide effort to drag all nations into a trial of revolutionary theories before their worth has been demonstrated. If the Soviet scheme had proved a success, the example would have willing followers. If humanity could find happiness by being reduced to one drab level of militant servitude, it would not be necessary to bomb other peoples into acceptance of that status. Yet, notwithstanding the terrific struggle the Soviet rulers are having with economic and financial problems, and the suffering and privations that Russians are forced to endure, an endless stream of gold flows to agents in other nations to foment disorder and revolution.

No one in this country has given more time to investigation of the red menace than Representative J. Hamilton Fish, jr., chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate communistic activities in America. Mr. Fish does not anticipate or predict anything like a "communist revolution" in this country, but he does say that "today and every day thousands of men and women are working as agents of an international organization to bring about the ultimate overthrow of our Government. That statement is based on uncontrovertible facts. It can be sustained by exact, absolute proof."

Washington is having a demonstration of insidious red methods in the efforts of various communistic organizations under disguised names to influence the bonus army. An overwhelming majority of the veterans encamped here have given evidence of their loyalty and their dislike for red agents, yet in devious ways these conspirators return to spread their vicious propaganda.

More than 70 per cent of the active Communists in this country are aliens and many of them unquestionably are fit subjects for deportation. Protection should not be extended to those who are carrying on secret warfare against the Government. Congress is considering legislation that will facilitate the expulsion of more undesirable aliens, and it is to be hoped that it will be made law before the present session ends.

WHY NOT GO HOME?

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Action of the Senate in moving to provide small bonus loans to pay the way of encamped veterans back home from Washington presages the end of a futile gesture and a sorry spectacle. Shortage of food, health conditions at the encampment which endanger not only the wandering veterans, but the community on which they are billeted, mud and severe discomfort, along with the certainty that the bonus is not going to be paid off at this time, have resulted in disintegration of the bonus army. The same conditions have discouraged other veterans from making the futile trip to Washington.

The plan adopted is as good as any to get the boys safely back home. They can not be permitted to remain at Washington indefinitely. Indeed, they can not be taken care of there. Neither can the States engage to relay them back to their starting places. Small loans without interest for transportation and subsistence on the retreat would, if unpaid, deduct little from the face value of the compensation certificates and would work hardship on no one.

While the bonus army movement was a drab failure, as it was certain to be, and hardly redounded to the credit of the veterans involved, it is best for the welfare of the men themselves and for the public order that some such means as provided by Congress be supplied to get them home. It should be made clear, however, that loans for transportation apply only to the present "army," and not to other groups that might, on the strength of them, decide to take a jaunt to Washington.

Baffled. —Detroit News.

POST HASTE.

M. Herriot assures France that his signature at Lausanne was affixed with fingers crossed.

Failure of the United States to cancel war debts may kill the reparation agreement, but it can not resuscitate the Young plan.

Disturbances in southern Brazil. Every once in a while the State of Sao Paulo has to show its resentment at paying 70 per cent of the nation's taxes.

The President informed Gov. Roosevelt that he was a bit premature in wanting to break into international discussions. Anyhow, waterways are diluted themes these antiprohibition days.

Ohio can not expect to get much notoriety from her disastrous windstorms. They only attract general attention when they occur in Kansas and are called cyclones.

It is very inconsiderate of the inflationist's feelings for commodity prices to be rising this way in terms of nothing but good, old-fashioned gold dollars.

Of course, we know we are not going to get much out of those war debts, but no one likes to have debtors take forgiveness for granted.

The greatest value of international financial readjustments will be lost if the world does not realize that with changed conditions individuals are as much entitled to consideration as nations.

The Shipstead outburst against promises of debt cancellation that nobody is authorized to make and that nobody has made, is renewed evidence that there is no law against senatorial spasms over hypothetical phantasms.

PAUL HUDSON.

LEARNING FROM GRANNY.

According to the New York Morning Telegraph, a certain grandson of Queen Victoria, when a freshman at Oxford, had spent all of his allowance and, what is worse, gone £10 in debt.

He appealed to his royal grandmother, asking her for an advance on future remittances. He didn't get it. Instead he received a lengthy letter from that austere lady containing some reproof and much, much advice.

In due course the young man replied to this. He had, he said, decided to heed everything his grandmother had to say about conservatism and thrift and had, in fact, already begun by selling the original of her letter to a collector for £25.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ABOUT SAFETY.

Let old folks prate their wisdom, but all little girls and boys
Will still run helter-skelter when they're playing with their toys.

I'd hate to see a youngster, say of eight or nine or ten,
All cluttered up and burdened with the fears of older men.
It would rob him of his childhood, which is not the Lord's design.
He'll get his share of wisdom when he comes to forty-nine.

So let older folks be careful—time has brought to them the task,
And not too much from children should their parents seek or ask.
There are dangers in the city, but when brakes in frenzy squeal
You will usually discover there's a grown-up at the wheel.

Tell the youngsters to be careful, but they'll all be children still,
And a child will chase a baseball through the streets and always will.
Every grownup ought to know it. Where the children romp about
He's the one to move with caution; he's the one who must look out!

You Need Never Take the Bull by the Horns if You Dehorn Him as a Calf.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE time to prevent war is long before the first hot-heads begin to clamor for it.

Conflicting policies and interest are slowly but surely paving the way for armed conflict with Japan.

If war should come, America has no reason to fear defeat. Her superior resources of men and money would make ultimate victory certain.

But victory would not bring back the dead, heal the maimed or lighten the burden of taxation.

Safety does not lie in preparation for victory, but in the preservation of peace. And America, fortunately, has it within her power to make such a war impossible.

There are three policies that will work together to give assurance of peace.

First, encourage China in her struggle against Japan. This would be good business as well as sound statesmanship. Japan buys from us less than we buy from her; China buys more. As a market for American goods, Japan has reached the saturation point; China's market, although expanding rapidly, still offers almost unlimited possibilities for development. Anything that helps China will check Japan; and China offers no menace, but only an assurance of jobs for American workers and wealth for American manufacturers.

The second policy consists in the cultivation of Russia's friendship. It is true, despite the optimism of those who think only in terms of the present, that Russia's state-controlled industry will some day deprive America of many foreign markets. But we can not mend matters by standing aloof, and we can gain much by helping Russia to her feet. A strong Russia would not be a military menace to America, and Japan would not dare risk conflict with America if a strong Russia stood at her back waiting to settle old scores.

Finally, the third policy consists in weakening Japan economically. America, as you know, is the keystone of Japan's economic security. Denied America's market for raw silk and vegetable oils, she would be bankrupt. And that market can be closed, as many another has been.

Perhaps no such drastic action is necessary or wise. The threat of it might serve.

But this much is certain. Wise statesmanship must look to the distant future. These three policies would prevent war. And any policy, however cold-blooded it may seem, is justified if it gives assurance of protection and peace.

There is no wrong in wetting a neighbor's powder if you know he is gunning for you.

PRO AND CON

This Is Economy.

Houston Post.

Mr. Ripley of "Believe It or Not" fame might be interested in this report from Washington that representatives and senators in congress have been receiving telegrams from citizens of many towns urging the solons not to vote for appropriations for new postoffices and other public buildings in those towns.

"Save the money and cut down expenses" has been the burden of the theme of these telegrams.

If this report be true, then indeed is there something new under the sun. The eighth wonder of the earth has been discovered—a congressman's constituency that does not want him to raid the Federal treasury for a local benefit. When congressmen began to get these messages, one may imagine that their eyes "popped out like rabbits."

If the people of the various States have finally awakened to the fact that in order to get lower Federal taxes they must have less spending by the government, they are entering upon a happier day.

Nomination of Mr. Garner.

Hartford Courant.

The nomination of Mr. Garner for the Vice Presidency by the Democratic party does not strengthen its ticket. On the contrary, it definitely weakens it, particularly in the East, where it will be rightly construed as being another deliberate slap administered by the Democrats of the South and the West. Remembering what the State of Texas did in the presidential election of 1928, and for what reasons, the Democrats of the East will only be strengthened by the nomination of Mr. Garner in their present intention to go fishing on the day of the election.

Often Mere Fractions.

Indianapolis Star.

The unit rule in the Democratic convention usually means that the delegates are by no means a unit.

"Impossible Theorist."

Boston Transcript.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his speech of acceptance, made a statement which alone should defeat his election as President of the United States. Taken in conjunction with other developments of the campaign, it should relegate him to the class of the impossible theorists who, like Bryan, the American people never have failed to reject. Said Gov. Roosevelt: "Our Republican leaders tell us that economic laws—sacred, inviolable, unchangeable—that these laws cause panics which no one could prevent. But while they prate of economic laws, people are starving. We must lay hold of the fact that economic laws are not made by nature. They are made by human beings.

Two more glaring misstatements of the truth could hardly have been packed into so little space. Economic law is natural law, and panics have been caused by its violations. The present plight of the United States Government, for example, is caused in large part by ignoring the simple truth of the inviolable natural law, not "made by human beings," but recognized by them since the beginning of time, that neither a government nor an individual can spend beyond its income without running into debt; and that when the credit of a national government becomes impaired, national disaster is as certain to follow as the night the day.

Well Mated.

Hartford Courant.

Mr. Garner's nomination has one virtue. It does not represent an effort on the part of the Democratic party to face both ways, such as is usually attempted. On the contrary, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner represent essentially the same policies, the same temperament, the same outlook, and their policies, their temperament and their outlook are not those in which the Nation has confidence.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Veteran Reminds Bonus Boys That They Are Part of the Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The papers should point out to the "bonus boys" the error of their ways and advise them to return to their homes.

If Congress would adjourn it would be worth more to the country than any $5,000,000,000 they might appropriate. There are millions and billions of money in the country ready to work as soon as Congress adjourns But not a dollar of it will come out while they are in session. It may be too late in season to do much good.

I have the honor to be a veteran. I had one brother and he served with me. I have two sons who are veterans. One of them served in two wars. All four volunteers, and, of course, I am a friend of veterans.

The so-called "bonus army" is composed of men of ordinary intelligence who have just gone wrong. We sometimes are led astray and do not realize to what extremes we go until something brings us to reason. One of the strongest illustrations of that fact was a case over in Illinois. A very fine gentleman, who was a locomotive engineer, got to taking too much booze, and wasted his income to the neglect of his family. He went into a saloon one Sunday morning for a drink. The saloonkeeper lived in the rear part and was assisting his wife to dress for church. He came out, set a glass of water on the counter, an empty glass and a bottle of whisky. As the engineer filled the glass with whisky, and raised it to his lips, the woman passed through the saloon on her way to church, dressed in the height of fashion. The keeper, proudly waving his hand, said: "That's the way I send my wife to church."

The engineer set his whisky down untouched. "My wife and two children," he thought, "haven't decent clothes to go to church." He turned and walked out of the saloon. It took just that remark to make him see the error of his ways. The last I heard of him he had a home good enough for anybody.

One error that some of us make is this: We expect the Government to help us whenever we want help. What is the Government? It is just you and me, and every other American citizen, and we should realize that every dollar paid by the Government comes from the people, the great majority of whom are not financially able to pay. Every obligation of the Government imposes a tax on the people, and they are taxed to the bleeding point now. Every veteran, and that includes the "bonus army," is a part of the Government. Every American should be doing everything he can to help support the Government in these critical times.

Some people seem to think that the officials in Washington are the Government. The President, Congress, and other officials are merely our agents; put there to transact business for us and guard our interests. Unfortunately some of them seem to be more interested in their own affairs than they are in ours. It may be well to replace some of these. Put none but patriots on guard next year. If we, as members of the Government, will do our part we will soon be on the road to prosperity.

A VETERAN.

Suggests a Progressive Tax on Bank Checks in Place of the Straight 2-Cent Tax.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Among the new taxes, so I note, there is a 2-cent tax on bank checks. In the aggregate, it is expected to produce about $78,000,000 in revenue. Maybe; but in the meantime, as the law rests, it will put the bookkeeping sections of the banks to considerable trouble.

Why not avoid all this by having stamps printed? The maker of the check would buy and affix a stamp. The bank when canceling the check would also cancel the stamp. Naturally, the bank would refuse to cash any unstamped checks. This would do away with all accounting. Automatically the 2 cents would find its way into the Government's pocket.

In this matter of check imposts, so it appears, the Government hasn't made full use of its opportunities. A stroke of the pen could have changed the tax into a progressive one—a minimum of 2 cents up to $200, 3 cents on $300, and so on until a maximum of 25 cents is reached, to apply on all checks for $2,500 and over.

The fact that a man writes a check for $2,500 proves or ought to prove that he has that much money, and that he is ready to part with it. Well, let him part with another quarter; that won't hurt. We are always willing to supply suggestions, provided that some other fellow will supply the funds.

Why Should Congress Take Long Vacations?—Two Weeks Without Pay Suggested.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Congress may remain for the rest of the summer." Why not? Other employes, both public and private, remain. Where do they get the notion that being statesmen consists of having a good time? If we the sovereign people should be generous enough to grant the lower house members two weeks' vacation minus pay, they should be thankful for it. I favor the abolition of the Senate in the matter of economy. The Senate is a useless legislative wing and does not do any good. The salaries of congressmen should be reduced to, say, a thousand dollars a year. It produces in their minds a superiority complex.

This vacation stuff on the part of congressmen is a very serious matter. They must be made aware of the fact that being statesmen is a job that needs constant vigilance. They must be kept on the job. They supply us with amusement; they are the life of the Nation. Ask any congressman and he will tell you how indispensable he is to the good and welfare of society.

Your blankets will give more service if you let us clean them before they are stored away (our process removes dirt that rots the yarn—it restores the blankets to their original fluffiness).

Cleaning Double Blankets, $1.25 each

ECONOMIST DECRIES LACK OF LEADERSHIP

Paul Mazur Tells Virginia Institute R. F. C. Trying Impossible Task.

Charlottesville, Va., July 11 (A.P.).—The University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs today plunged into a searching study of current economic problems, with speakers urging various proposals for the return to normalcy, and each asserting that delay means greater suffering in the end.

The economic situation came to the fore in discussions by John T. Madden, president of the Alexander Institute; Marcus Nadler, director of the Institute of International Finance, and Paul Mazur, New York investment banker.

Mr. Madden, warning that to wait "until November will be too late," urged an immediate solution of reparations, debts, tariff, monetary and capital market restoration problems.

An additional warning was given by Mr. Mazur, who said: "Unless the volume and price level of American business improve within the next year, there is nothing to prevent a holocaust among bondholders that would be as free from the administration's protection as the unemployed are apparently free of its assistance." He expressed the opinion that a new period of prosperity will be born with the adoption of a national five-day week.

Need of Clear Vision.

Mr. Nadler denied the capitalist system had failed, but said "the world is in immediate need of vision, clear understanding of the various problems, and true leadership."

Dr. Forrest Lamar Knapp, director of leadership training of the International Council of Religious Education, was the principal speaker before the round table on religious education. He said the goal of Protestant Christian cooperation is being achieved, as Protestant Christians get together, not so much on the basis of common creeds as on the basis of common purposes and common tasks.

He said the purpose of the international council is to provide an opportunity for the boards of committees on religious education of the Protestant evangelical forces of North America to work together on those tasks which can be done more effectively and efficiently together than separately.

Problem of Unemployment.

Unemployment problems were given a thorough airing in the afternoon after an exciting morning session in which the attitude of the administration leaders toward the depression was alternately criticized and praised.

The civilization that can not solve its unemployment and labor problems will die, said Dr. Ethelbert Stewart, who until ten days ago was head of the Bureau of Statistics of the United States Department of Labor.

Capt. Doak E. Carter, chief of the staff of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces, explained why thousands of former service men have crowded into Washington.

Charges that administration leaders are deliberately lying or have been inexcusably ignorant of business and financial conditions were made by Mr. Mazur in his address. When pressed by administration supporters in the audience he named numerous specific instances beginning in 1929 and continuing until the present, in which Republican leaders were charged with having given out false and misleading information regarding stimulation of business.

Finance Group Scored.

Kept on his feet for nearly an hour after the presentation of his paper, on the present situation and the way to recovery, by rapid fire questions, Mr. Mazur surprised the audience with statements that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is trying to do the impossible in seeking to hold up an insolvent banking system, that commercial banks are the Nation's biggest hoarders, that the need for a balanced budget has been entirely fiction of publicity agencies in Washington, and that time has come when the Nation must rebuild by borrowing upon the resources of the future.

Spencer Miller, jr., secretary of the Workers Education Bureau of America, tonight told the institute that "unemployment has become a permanent fact which discloses fatal defects in our social organization."

The speaker said a year ago there were more than 6,000,000 wholly unemployed, and "today there are upward of 10,000,000 wholly unemployed, and at least half that number partially employed."

"Of this number certainly one-fourth will never again be reabsorbed into American industry, according to competent authorities," he said.

U. S. Holds Foxes Eat Foes of Quail

Report May Heal Breach Between Rival Classes of Huntsmen.

A special report of the Department of Agriculture on the predatory habits of foxes may heal a century-old breach between the nimrods who shoot the partridge and those who gallop after Reynard.

The bobwhite hunters contended their game would flourish without the fox, while the huntsmen of the fox believed that the fox kept down the enemies which prey upon partridges.

The department report sustained the argument of the fox hunters. They found that partridge is seldom on Reynard's menu and that he feeds considerably on mice and rats, which are a menace to young birds.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

RADIO organizations have no information or confirmation of the reports that the Republicans and Democrats will take $1,000,000 each from their campaign chests for broadcasting. They assert that no definite plans have been formulated for campaigning on the air, but conferences will be held within the next few weeks to make arrangements for transcontinental rallies and campaign oratory. Many of the autumnal entertainment programs will be side-tracked as politics again grips the microphone, especially in October and up to election day.

It is the custom of the radio organizations to handle a presidential address without charge. On that basis, Mr. Hoover's campaign talks would be free, but Mr. Roosevelt might receive a bill. Inquiry reveals that the major networks will have a parley on this point, when the question arises, and if Mr. Hoover makes a strictly campaign speech he, too, may be billed for time on the air.

One thing is certain, the Democrats have no notification ceremony to pay for, because that went on the air as part of the convention finale. It is expected that the Hoover official notification will be broadcast to the Nation.

STATION WOR set a precedent in broadcasting circles several years ago by signing off on summer afternoons, which practice is continued this season. A. J. McCosker, manager of the Newark broadcaster, believes there are enough so-called studio ensembles, jazz bands, string trios and songsters on the air to satisfy all those who want to listen.

Addresses by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and the Right Hon. Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, will be featured in a half-hour international broadcast from London (WMAL, 3:30 o'clock) this afternoon. Dr. Butler and Churchill will speak at a Pilgrims' Society dinner, arranged in connection with the George Washington Bicentennial.

George Hall, whose orchestra broadcasts over the Columbia network more times weekly than any other one band, will be interviewed by Bob Taplinger, when the "Meet the Artist" program is heard (WMAL, 4:15) this afternoon. With George Hall will be his entire orchestra, which will play several selections during the program. It is expected that Hall will reveal several interesting anecdotes concerning Victor Herbert, in whose orchestra he played for several years.

While Ed Wynn and his Fire Chief show are holding forth on WRC, the Goldman Band will be heard in concert on the WJZ network (WBAL, 8:30 p. m.), playing selections from the operatic and sacred works of the Italian composer, Verdi.

"THE Bryson Brothers Case," will be the police story dramatization during the Lucky Strike program tonight (WRC, 9 o'clock). Joe Moss and his orchestra will furnish the musical portion of the hour.

Hardie Meakin, the RKO Columnist of the Air, will be heard on WRC, giving the latest gossip of the RKO lot in Hollywood, at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

America is not jazz mad, insists Cesare Sodero, whose symphony concert will be presented by WRC at 10:16 o'clock tonight. On the contrary, Sodero believes, American people are coming more and more to appreciate what is commonly termed "good music." Included in Sodero's classification of "good music" comes some which is ordinarily classed as jazz.

"Popular music frequently is good music," Sodero said, "and for that reason it often has a place on a program of compositions by the masters."

Amos 'n' Andy have written and broadcast 2,200 episodes since their air debut nearly six years ago. Each sketch consumes from 1,500 to 2,000 words.

BEADED dresses or jingling jewelry on performers are taboo in the studios because the noises such finery makes are amplified by the microphone and sound more like gunfire than anything else.

THOMAS HURLS NATS TO 5-1 VICTORY OVER CHISOX

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WHEN the twelve colleges in the Eastern Association met in solemn session a few days ago and delivered an ultimatum that set the radio companies back on their heels to recover as best they could from the decision to permit no more broadcasts of their home games, those colleges left their collective chins in a position that invited disaster.

The radio people have as yet made no reply, but this department has been informed that the retaliatory measures of the broadcasting firms will take the form of a very effective boycott that will make the colleges rue the day that they decided to exclude the microphones from the stands.

The broadcasting firms have already decided to take the twelve associated colleges at their word and withdraw from their home stadiums, but they will not move the microphones a great distance. They will be installed in nearby stadiums of rival colleges that have not been accustomed to radio publicity, and begin an intensive "build up" of these latter institutions.

Such a move is calculated to bring most of the Eastern Association to its knees with a clamor for reinstatement in the good graces of the radio people. In certain sections where several schools have been vying for the patronage of the public, the radio people are prepared to sacrifice their broadcasts of the more important institutions and lend their presence to the colleges that have not banned the radio.

In New York City, where Columbia, New York University and Fordham are the leading competitors for metropolitan football patronage, Fordham will be the beneficiary of the radio firm's broadcasts. Both Columbia and New York U. are among the colleges that ruled the radio out of their home stadiums and incurred the displeasure of the radio firms.

It is this department's belief that when Columbia and New York U. officials and alumni hear Fordham's games on the air each Saturday with the Jesuit institution basking alone in the publicity and glamour that Columbia and N. Y. U. used to command, there will be a break in the ranks of those institutions that took the stand against broadcasting.

It is probable, of course, that Harvard, one of the colleges that took a leading part in the ban of broadcasting, will revel in its aloofness and continue the ban even if every other associated college finally capitulates. Harvard doubtless will take the stand that the absence of broadcasting at Cambridge, despite the displeasure of Harvard alumni in other sections of the country, will be worth the distinction that it brings to Harvard.

Of all the colleges in the association that banished radio, the position of the Army and Navy Academies is the weakest. The radio people have it within their power to black-jack the service athletic authorities into line by the simple expedient of carrying the matter direct to the Cabinet.

The hours of time that the radio people give over to the Army and Navy on their programs are quite considerable, and very little pressure would have to be brought to bear by the broadcasting firms to force the West Point and Annapolis people to reverse their decisions. But the radio people have decided simply to boycott the offending colleges and let the gate receipts and squawks of the alumni fall where they may.

Judges Vote Decision to Landers

Antonelli, Thompson, Essinger Win by Knockouts.

By JACK ESPEY.

SHADES of Jesse James! Somewhere around the ring in Twin City Arena the spirit of the bold, bad man of the West hovered last night, for robbery was committed—cold, merciless holdup.

They took a well-earned decision from Benny Schwartz, Baltimore bantamweight, and gave it to Billy Landers, blond Norfolk star, after eight rounds of sensational fighting that kept 1,800 cheering fans on their feet all the way. Schwartz had the decision in his educated fists right up until the breathless moment that Announcer Jimmy Lake bawled: "Unanimous—Landess," and it couldn't have been worse had they done it with guns.

They snatched the victory from the man who landed the cleaner blows by a 10-to-1 ratio and handed it on a silver platter to the crowd's choice, the fighter who long ago was adopted Washington's fistic fair-haired boy, but whose chief asset is courage combined with aggressiveness rather than skill.

Schwartz Finishes Stronger.

It was the second time Schwartz was thus deprived of the decision against the same opponent, but in this case the wrong was much more obvious, for Schwartz not only won the early rounds by a wide margin but finished the bout stronger than Landers. In their earlier clash at Alexandria, Billy nearly stowed Benny away in the seventh round, but the Baltimore veteran absorbed his strongest fire last night and actually outlasted him in a toe-to-toe exchange through the final two rounds.

The decision was rendered by Referee Ed Brockman and Judges Charlie Short and Ed Thomas, all of Schwartz' home town. Schwartz and Brockman argued openly during the sixth round over the question of whether he was holding. In the eyes of this writer, who had picked Schwartz to win, Benny was holding, and did so times without number. But here the veteran proved wise, for he would have been no match for Landers in the infighting what with Landers wielding one of the most potent right hands in the 118-pound division.

Landers forced the fighting and struck many more blows at close range, but these were more than offset by the well-timed punches he caught with his head and chin as he rushed recklessly into close quarters swinging an overhand right. Schwartz not only scored the cleaner hits, but forced his foe to miss by country miles time and again. Billy stirred

Cleveland Jolts Mackmen Twice

Indians Win, 9-8 and 12-7, as Foxx Hits Year's 34th Homer.

Philadelphia, July 11 (A.P.).—The Cleveland Indians gave the Athletics' hopes of gaining on the Yankees a severe jolt today when they took both ends of a double-header, 9 to 8 and 12 to 7.

The Indians pounded Roy Mahaffey for twelve hits and drove him off the mound after seven innings in the nightcap. Earl Averill, who hit a home run in the first game, cracked two more in the second. The first of the latter two came in the opening inning with one on base and the second with two on in the seventh.

Jimmy Foxx hit his thirty-fourth home run of the season in the A's half of the seventh, high over the roof of the left field stands. Harder went the distance for the Indians, giving the A's seventeen hits.

PIRATES ADD TO LEAD IN NATIONAL

Beat Dodgers, 5 to 3, as Cubs Are Beaten by Braves.

PITTSBURGH, July 11 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates increased their lead in the National League to two and a half games today, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 3, while the Cubs were dropping a game to the Braves.

Steve Swetonic, aided by the bat of Tommy Thevenow, hung up his tenth victory of the season as he held the Dodgers to seven hits. Thevenow, subbing for the injured Traynor, drove in two runs in the fifth and led off with a triple in the eighth, finally scoring. Gus Suhr accounted for the other two runs.

Holland Olympic Team Sees Sights of Capital

Holland's Olympic Team saw the sights of Washington yesterday, with Pete Desjardins, 1928 Olympic diving champion, acting as guide. The Holland delegation consisted of its track and swimming teams, along with coaches, trainers and advisers.

The swimming team had two short workouts in the Wardman Pool yesterday, the feature of which was the remarkable speed shown by Wilhelmina Deoden, 13-year-old girl champion of Europe, who negotiated 100 meters in 1:08 2-5. Others on the swimming team are Marie Braun Phillipsen, 1928 100-yard stroke Olympic champion; M. Dierbad, P. Overaloot and G. Ladde.

Stella Walsh Demands Job As She Ponders Allegiance

With Choice of U. S. and Poland, Girl Sprint Star Says She Will Run in Olympics for Country Giving Her Work.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 11 (A.P.).—Stella Walsh, world's leading feminine sprint star, at present unemployed, wavered today over her Olympic allegiances—the United States or Poland.

Tomorrow, the city of Cleveland will bid for her services as an Olympic athlete for the United States by offering her a municipal position.

Ever since Miss Walsh was given an indefinite furlough without pay two weeks ago by the New York Central Railroad she, has been of two minds, whether to run for the United States or her native Poland.

Twice within the past week she has been ready to take out naturalization papers to qualify her as an American entry, but as many times she has changed her mind.

Last week, through the Polish consul in New York, she was offered a position in public recreation work in Poland as an inducement to wear her country's colors.

Tomorrow afternoon, Mayor Ray T. Miller will offer her a position in the city recreation department, the offer to be contingent on her becoming an American citizen at a special naturalization hearing Wednesday.

Miss Walsh said she considered it imperative that she have work, and is ready to run for the country which presents the most attractive opportunity.

There are five in the Walsh family, and her father at present has only part-time work in a steel company here.

She said she is planning, however, to leave Thursday for the Olympic tryouts in Evanston, Ill., where she is entered in her specialties—the 100-meter dash, the 400-meter relay and the discus throw.

DickeyRuling Upheld by Directors

Club Owners, in Move Against 'Bean Ball,' Adopt Penalties.

CLEVELAND, July 11 (A.P.).—Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher, who swings as mean a fist as he does a bat, will have to do his 30 days off the ball field and dig up his $1,000 fine.

Over the vigorous protest of Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, directors of the American League today decided Dickey's suspension and fine was a just punishment and prescribed a similar penalty in any future cases of "unwarranted slugging."

Dickey, a chief cog in the Yankees' pennant drive, was suspended by William Harridge, president of the league, last Saturday for slugging and breaking the jaw of Carl Reynolds, star outfielder of the Washington Nationals.

Directors' Vote Is Unanimous.

Three of the league's directors—Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland Club; Robert Quinn, president of the Boston Club, and Harry Grabiner, vice president and secretary of the Chicago White Sox, who represented Louis J. Comiskey, president—upheld the penalty. Ruppert, the fourth director, did not vote since the case concerned his own club.

To curb any future outbreaks, it was voted that a "minimum suspension" of 30 days be inflicted on those guilty of unwarranted fisticuffs.

"So far as I am concerned, it is all over," said Ruppert after the meeting. He previously had contended the suspension was unnecessarily severe and did "irreparable damage" to the Yankees. He said, however, that Dickey would have the right to appeal the case to Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

Penalty Established For "Bean Balls."

The club heads also adopted penalties for "bean ballers," decided to open next season April 13 or 14 and close October 4, and voted to leave the matter of collection of the Federal admission taxes to the individual clubs.

Penalties for throwing "bean balls" at the batsman's head will be punished from now on by removal of the pitcher from the game on his first offense, 10 days suspension without pay for the second offense and 30 days suspension without pay for the third offense.

No mention was made of what, if anything, was said about affairs of the Boston Club, in the depths of a disastrous season.

McCarthy and Dickey Unruffled by Decision

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—News from Cleveland that Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, would be forced to serve out his 30-day suspension brought little comment today from Manager Joe McCarthy.

"We will have to make the best of it," McCarthy said. "I don't like it, of course, but there doesn't seem to be anything we can do about it."

Dickey, who obviously had little hope of lessening his punishment for breaking Carl Reynolds' jaw with a right-hand punch in a game with the Washington Nationals, merely shrugged when he learned of the refusal of the American League directors to change the penalty.

Nemo Leibold Let Out As Pilot at Columbus

Minneapolis, July 11 (A.P.).—Nemo Liebold has been dismissed as manager of the Columbus Team of the American Association, Lary McPhail, club president, said today.

The action came after the Redbirds, rated on paper as one of the strongest teams in the league, had dropped six straight games, four of them to the last-place St. Paul Team and two here.

Rochester, N. Y., July 11 (A.P.).—William H. Southworth, for the last five seasons manager of the Rochester Red Wings and winner of four pennants with that club since 1928, has been switched to Columbus, of the American Association, it was announced here today by Warren C. Giles, president of the Red Wings. He added that George (Specs) Toporcer would be the new pilot of the International League champions.

Rosenbloom Fights Scozza Tomorrow

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized in this State as world's light-heavyweight champion, defends his title against Lou Scozza, of Buffalo, in a fifteen-round bout in Buffalo Wednesday night, the only bout of more than ordinary interest of the national fistic card this week. Rosenbloom originally was to have met George Nichols, also of Buffalo, who holds the National Boxing Association's light-heavyweight championship. Scozza, however, whipped Nichols in a nontitle bout and was given the "shot" at Rosenbloom.

The lightweight match between Kid Chocolate and Jack (Kid) Berg will be held in Madison Square Garden bowl next Monday night. This bout was to have been held tonight, but was postponed when Berg came down with a heavy cold.

MAROONED'S FINISH ANNEXES ARLINGTON PARK FEATURE

Coucci Rides 3 Winners in Debut at Chicago Track.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 11 (A.P.).—Marooned, a 2-year-old colt owned by Leo J. Marks, of Lexington, Ky., staged a brilliant stretch run to win the Wilmette Purse, a $2,500 feature of today's Arlington Park card.

After trailing Liqueur to the stretch, Jockey Wright let Marooned out and the son of Whiskalong came on to win by five lengths. C. V. Whitney's Capsheaf got up to take the place, with Liqueur third. Marooned ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:05 4-5, and overlooked in the wagering, paid $16.02 to win.

Clarify, coupled with Tickory Tock as the M. L. Schwartz entry, and rated as one of the favorites for the $10,000 added Hyde Park Stakes Wednesday, was cut down during the race.

The 16-year-old Bronx lad got away to a flying start in the first race, winning with Miss Bunting at odds of 4 to 1. He brought the favorite, Etcetera, home in the third contest, and completed his triple with Fiddler in the sixth event. He just missed riding his fourth winner in the closing race, finishing second with Marlene.

AT THE POST

ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 11.

DEAR AL:

Two winners a day will keep the wolf away. That's all I could squeeze out of yesterday's card, but, as usual, I piled them into the money. Flirting at $22.48 was my exclusive place horse in the first race. Jockey Coucci turned in some clever rides today, and I'm forced to give him an assist in bringing my Etcetra up to beat Vishnu.

If you can't get enough action here, try these at the other tracks: Walter H., Regula Baddun, Eisenberg, Bag Smasher, Darksini, Inca.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—MINTOGEE may not get in this race, but seems to hold a strong hand if a starter. Has shown rare form both in races and in trials. LUCILLE K. won for me further back and has a chance with these. MEROVECH for the show end.

SECOND RACE—Here's BRIGHT BIRD. One I woke up last spring and which has failed to show Maryland speed hereabouts. However, this one seems to be on edge again and may step down to bring you something to remember him by. ESKIMO, much at home on this course, appears to be the one to beat. SOPHIST to defeat the others.

THIRD RACE—TIMOROUS did well enough in that last to warrant a first place rating tomorrow. HILENA belongs in the first group. Ran a bang-up second last week. TECHNIQUE for the show and a possible chance to take it all.

FOURTH RACE—RISQUE should have little trouble with this field or else somebody has been kidding.

PROTEUS may awake to show some of that 2-year-old speed. MOWRIS to take the others in camp.

FIFTH RACE—EVENING has shown me signs of returning to that sensational form that marked her work early this year. Asking a lot to make her beat GUSTO, SPRINGSTEEL and the others. This is her distance. Some racing luck with a boy who knows how to boot in the stretch and EVENING will have the long end in the bag.

SIXTH RACE—ON SIR impressed the last time and is the logical pick for first honors among these. JAMBALAYA was a "hot" horse in his recent race. SWINCRAFT to complete the first three.

SEVENTH RACE — INHERITOR sneaked into a substitute race the other day and proceeded to jolt the boys who do the short price betting. And I do believe INHERITOR will be overlooked tomorrow. GARLIC and FINNIC to take care of the others.

The result of Joe's system horses will be published tomorrow. He didn't have a chance to figure up bank roll by press time. Only five horses ran and out of the first four, two of them won. MUEHLEISEN, ROBINSON ADVANCE

Army Pair to Meet Markey-Considine Tomorrow.

DOLF Muehleisen, the California netman, who became the first from the West to win the District of Columbia tennis championship last Sunday, advanced a decisive step toward winning still another trophy at Wardman Park Hotel yesterday, when, paired with Lieut. Stanley K. Robinson, Army singles champion, he advanced to the final round of the doubles.

Muehleisen and Robinson trounced Maurice O'Neill and Barney Welsh in two easy sets, 6—2, 6—1, and thus became eligible to meet Bud Markey and Bob Considine for the title.

Playing their opponents cleanly off their feet, Muehleisen and Robinson won as they pleased. Plainly nervous, Welsh found himself never able to hit the ball clean, save for an occasional service, while O'Neill's soft game seemed made to order for the lambasting Army aviators.

The winners went to 3 to 0 in each set before dropping a game, O'Neill's service checking them in the first set. The winners took the net on every occasion, and the eventual losers found themselves falling into frequent errors in efforts to pass the Army players.

The finals will be played tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at Wardman. It was originally planned to

Stocks Continue Advance As Shorts Run to Cover

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Stocks pulled farther away from the June lows today, making a sprightly advance in the last hour, after sluggish fluctuations during the earlier trading.

Support for the rails and a brisk retreat of shorts in Auburn Auto were among the technical developments that worked to the general list's advantage.

Also, Wall street saw definite signs of congressional adjournment, a prospect which was probably much more to the point than any other single market influence of the day. Domestic bonds were encouragingly firm, although many Europeans had to absorb speculative profit-taking.

Squeeze in Auburns.

The short squeeze in Auburn brought an extreme gain of 13½ points for that dynamic stock and the close was only a point under the top. Tobaccos provided considerable strength, American Tobacco B and Liggett & Myers B rising more than 2.

United States Steel preferred, International Business Machines, Case and Allied Chemical were also up 2 or so, while Steel common, Westinghouse, American Can, National Biscuit, Standard Oil of New Jersey and a few rails, including Santa Fe, New York Central and Union Pacific gained about 1 to 1½.

The early market watched American Telephone, Coca-Cola and Public Service of New Jersey make new lows, but buying of carrier shares quickly put the brakes on reactionary tendencies and by afternoon the list was crawling upward. Trading eventually became more active, although sales totaled only 596,117 shares.

New Relief Bill.

Washington advices predicted that Congress would pass a new relief bill acceptable to the President, thus clearing the decks for final adjournment, perhaps by the end of this week. A month ago brokers were confident that dispersal of the National Legislature would be greeted enthusiastically by the market, but current forecasts of what can be expected are not so unanimous, especially since the market refused to be stirred by the Lausanne settlement. That agreement, to which are tied the knotty strings of debt revision, appeals to most bankers as an important contribution to world stability. They do not believe the debt angle will be pressed until after our elections at earliest, expecting meanwhile a thorough discussion, in and out of political circles, of the problems involved.

Statistical services and brokerage house commentators agreed that the market's fundamental concern now is the depression's grip on domestic business, aggravated by midsummer dullness in basic lines. However, a lively interest is being taken in the action of several commodities, especially provisions, whose strength appears to have some statistical justification.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Store sales of Grand Union Co. for the quarter ended July 2 totaled $7,634,963, against $8,786,945 for the same period a year ago, a drop of 13.1 per cent.

Arrangements were made today for sale of a New York Curb Exchange membership for $16,500, off $1,000 from the previous transaction.

The Home Insurance Co. today declared an initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the new $5 par stock, payable August 1 to stock of record July 11. The old $10 par shares received $2 annually.

A plan of reorganization for Auto Sales Corporation, approved by the directorate, provides for formation of a new company to which assets and liabilities of the old will be transferred. Stockholders vote on the plan August 8.

Motor Products Corporation reports second quarter net profit of $55,493, equal to 29 cents a share, against loss of $179,526 in the preceding quarter and profit of $164,434, or $1.31 a share in the second quarter of 1931.

American Smelting & Refining Co. today reduced the price of lead 10 points to 2.70 a pound.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON CROP ESTIMATES

Outlook for Billion Bushels in North America Starts Further Decline.

Chicago, July 11 (A.P.).—Faced by prospects of more than a billion bushels of wheat supplies in North America this season, wheat values went generally downhill today.

Crop advices both north and south of the Canadian border were optimistic regarding spring wheat, the French foreign wheat quota was reduced 10 per cent, and official forecasts indicated that Germany's 1932 wheat crop would be the largest ever known. Furthermore, there was almost complete absence of export demand for wheat from North America, and with traders awaiting Government crop figures from Washington, future delivery dealings were reduced to the smallest total in some time.

The Government July 1 crop estimates issued late this afternoon were construed as decidedly bearish, indicating that the 1932 domestic yield of all wheat would total 737,000,000 bushels, against latest private forecasts of 685,000,000.

Wheat Closes Unsettled.

Wheat closed unsettled. Price setbacks in wheat took place despite the season's small movement of winter wheat so far, reflected by 110,000 bushels' decrease of the United States visible supply today, compared with a gain of 3,660,000 bushels at this time last year. It was pointed out, however, that although primary arrivals were small, the movement is increasing moderately, and assertions continued in some quarters that larger receipts Southwest were to be looked for soon. On the other hand, Illinois reports were current that farmers appeared remarkably unconcerned about selling wheat, and that where threshing had been begun the wheat was being stored.

Developments Northwest regarding spring wheat were sharply watched, as it was conceded the crop had entered a critical phase. With black rust widely in evidence, fears of damage continued if the weather became hot and muggy. Meanwhile, nevertheless, there was persistent selling in small lots all day by Southwest houses. This was believed to be hedging, and in the absence of speculative buying power and of export business proved effective as a weight on the market.

Americans and Britons Join Hands at World Oil Parley

Paris, July 11 (A.P.).—British and American delegates attending the tripartite oil conference are in complete agreement, it was authoritatively learned today, and satisfactory progress has been made in their negotiations with the large Roumanian companies.

Proposals to curtail production require, however, the approval of numerous small Roumanian organizations. The British and Americans apparently are disposed to guarantee the future of these smaller companies by purchasing part of their output.

FEDERAL BONDS JOIN UPSWING IN MARKET

Chilly Action of Foreigns Fails to Halt Buying; Rails Advance.

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Despite the slightly chilling performance of some foreign bonds, notably German and Brazilian issues, further buying appeared in the bond market today and prices advanced.

United States Government obligations displayed a firm tone, advancing from 1-32 to 5-32 point, with exception of the Liberty group, which recorded a 1-32 loss for all three issues.

Selling in German bonds which carried the Government 7s off 2¼ and the 5½s off 3¼ points, respectively, was atributed partly to Adolf Hitler's prediction that the Lausanne agreement would amount to little. Profittaking also played a part.

Brazilian government issues were down between 1 and 2 points with one exception, while the Sao Paulo 7s of 1940 lost over 5 points. Weakness was attributed to the revolutionary outbreak in that state.

Austrian, Australian, Chilean, Colombian, Finnish, New South Wales and other foreign bonds moved up a point or more. The Argentine 6s of May, 1961, were up more than 4 points.

The utilities registered fairly substantial gains in the domestic group. Gains of 1 or more points were recorded by the Brooklyn Edison 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s and Kansas City Power & Light 4½s. American Telephone issues moved fractionally higher.

Packing company bonds featured in the industrial list, the Wilson & Co. first 6s moving up 2½ points and Armour & Co. issues advancing 2 points for the 4½s and 3¼ for the 5½s.

The rails were generally fractionally higher.

Bountiful Crops and Cut In Prices Revive Buggy

Marshallville, Ga., July 11 (A.P.).—Bountiful crops of feed for live stock and low prices for farm products—all of which discourages the buying of gasoline—are restoring the horse and buggy to highways in this vicinity.

Mayor J. F. Lyles is one of the prime movers in placing old Dobbin back in his former glory. He has stored his automobile and bought a buggy to go with a horse he held over from the preauto era.

Public Service Receivers.

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Federal Judge John C. Knox today appointed the Irving Trust Co. as receiver in bankruptcy for the National Public Service Corporation and its subsidiary, Seaboard Public Service Co., both with offices in New York City. The two Insull units filed voluntary petitions in bankruptcy Friday.

CURB PRICES CLIMB IN LISTLESS TRADING

Utilities and Oils Higher in Turnover of Only 60,000 Shares.

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—The curb market managed to chalk up a smattering of plus signs in an extremely listless session today, in which the volume shrank to roughly 60,000 shares, or around the smallest of recent years.

Utilities were irregularly higher. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore sagged a point, possibly in response to introduction of a resolution in the city council asking a voluntary reduction in rates, but recovered later, as Commonwealth Edison gained nearly 2 points, and American Gas & Electric and Electric Bond & Share advanced fractionally. Montreal Light, Heat & Power gained more than 2 points in a thin market.

Oils held up well, in view of indications of crude production increases in California and east Texas. Standard of Indiana closed ½ higher, and Kentucky gained nearly a point. Gulf and Humble were inactive. Southland Royalty appeared at 3⅜, against a previous price of 5.

The Swift issues showed outstanding strength in the industrials, as hog prices continued to gain. Swift & Co. rose more than a point, to 12¼, in contrast to the year's low of 7. Cord Corporation gained fractionally, in response to the run in of shorts in Auburn on the big board.

A.F. FOX AGAIN HEADS UNION FIRE COMPANY

President to Begin Serving Insurance Concern for His Thirty-first Term.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Reelection of Albert F. Fox to the presidency of National Union Fire Insurance Co., of Washington, for the thirty-first consecutive year was voted yesterday following the annual meeting of stockholders.

Alfred H. Lawson, a vice president and real estate officer of Washington Loan & Trust Co., has succeeded the late John B. Larner on the board of the insurance company, and Floyd E. Davis, president of Lincoln National Bank, fills a vice presidential vacancy caused by Mr. Larner's death.

All officers and directors were reelected as follows: Mr. Fox, president; Walter S. Pratt, jr., and Mr. Davis, vice presidents; William H. Somervell, secretary; William H. Marbury, assistant secretary. Directors are Charles R. Brown, Mr. Davis, Mr. Fox, Charles E. Galliher, Mr. Lawson, J. Leo Kolb, Mr. Pratt, John Saul, F. L. Sandoz and James P. Schick.

Charter Issued in 1865.

The company was chartered by a special act of Congress in 1865 and its charter bears the signatures of Abraham Lincoln and William H. Seward.

Mr. Fox was elected vice president of the company in 1891 and became its president in 1902. For 25 years he was president of Columbia National Bank, resigning from that institution and transferring his offices to the National Union Fire Insurance Co. Building.

Eighty-seven years old, he was born in York County, Pa., in 1845, near a place called Freysville. He worked first in a drugstore at York, Pa., and coming to this city, entered the employ of the real estate office of the late Joseph F. Kelley, remaining with that firm until 1876, then opening an office of his own at 920 F street northwest, in association with the late Louis P. Shoemaker.

Assets of Syndicate.

Assets of Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis, with local offices, totaled $48,905,787.14 as of June 30, an increase for the first six months of 1932 of $2,259,568.59, according to the company's financial statement, released by E. M. Richardson, treasurer. Combined capital, surplus and reserves totaled $6,274,180.48 on June 30, according to the statement.

Cash on hand and in banks amounted to $810,017.07, a gain of $97,444.71 for the first six months of the year. Bonds and securities totaled $5,036,405.72, the statement shows, which represents a gain of $879,564.39 for the same period.

"Investors Syndicate is one of the few companies which has continued throughout the present economic disturbance to loan funds on the bedrock security of the American and Canadian home. Our experience proves conclusively that there is no better security," Mr. Richardson stated.

"We are very much encouraged with the company's showing during the first half of 1932," said Mr. Richardson. "It reflects the growing public interest in thrift brought about, I believe, by the harsh lessons of the past three years. It offers much encouragement for the future."

Visible Grain Supply Cut.

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat decreased 112,000; corn decreased 1,930,000; oats decreased 150,000; rye increased 11,000; barley decreased 39,000.

The firm was composed of five brothers, Milton, who obtained a seat on the curb in 1921, and Harold, Arthur A. Norman and Seymour Hayman. It had no out-of-town offices.

COTTON CUT LOWER BY LIQUIDATING RUSH

October Sells Off to 5.82; General Market Loses 6 to 11 Points.

New York, July 11 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under realizing, liquidation and scattered selling, promoted by favorable weather news and easy Liverpool cables. October contracts sold off to 5.80, making a net decline of 10 points and a reaction of about 42 points from the high prices of last week. That delivery closed at 5.82, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 6 to 11 points.

Initial offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying on losses of 5 to 7 points, but bulges of a few points met increased selling and the market soon turned easier. A fairly favorable view of the weather outlook and talk of an easier technical position following the advances of last week were factors on the decline. Offerings were comparatively light, but few buyers appeared after the early demand had been supplied, and the market worked gradually lower during the afternoon. July sold off to 5.67 and December to 5.94, making net declines of 8 to 12 points on active positions. Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest.

Selling Makes Appearance.

Southern and New Orleans selling was reported early, and there was also selling through brokers who sometimes operate for the cooperative interest. Offerings from these sources were not much in evidence, however, and at times contracts seemed comparatively scarce. However, buying was not sufficiently active to cause more than slight rallies during the progress of the decline.

Liverpool was credited with selling some cotton here, while demand was attributed largely to trade interests and brokers with Japanese connections. A private crop reporting authority issued a report placing the indicated crop based on the Government's acreage estimate at about 11,700,000 bales, but the figures evidently had little, if any, effect on the market.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and general liquidation in that market on the better weather report. Exports today, 1,675 bales, making 8,519,464 bales so far this season.

Oldest National Bank In Chillicothe, O., Fails

Chillicothe, Ohio, July 11 (A.P.).—The Ross County National Bank, with resources of $1,895,089.94, failed to open today. The bank, the oldest in the city, ascribed its closing to the sinking of its bonds and steady withdrawals.

The bank was turned over to the U. S. Comptroller of Currency, and officials of the institution expressed the opinion that accounts would be settled eventually for 70 cents on the dollar. The bank on June 30 had a capital of $150,000 and an undivided surplus of $110,000.

NEW EARNINGS LOW EXPECTED FOR JUNE

Wall Street Is Discounting Returns for Quarter; Rubber Improves.

New York, July 11.—In speculative quarters it is felt that the stock market's failure to show even a small response to what might be termed good news, is due to widespread belief that corporation reports for the June quarter will make the poorest showing of any so far. As Wall street views the earnings situation, it is only necessary to note the present abnormally low level of operations in all basic industries to form conclusive opinions on the character of second quarter results.

Interests closely allied with the rubber industry are said to feel more cheerful on the better prospects for balancing production and output, and on the possibility of constructive action to stabilize the industry and under the committee of five recently named to act as an advisory board to the entire industry.

Moody's says that of the 600 companies included in its index of dividends, 40 reduced their common dividends and 18 omitted them during the past month. The index declined to $1.36 a share at the end of June as compared with $1.45 on May 31, $1.96 on December 31, 1931, and the peak level of $3.06 on March 31, 1930. Since the end of 1931 the index has been declining at an average rate of 10 cents a month.

GANGSTER IS SLAIN, 3 SHOT IN GUN BATTLE

Detective's Slayer Cornered Near Albany; Wife Is Among Wounded.

Albany, N. Y., July 11 (A.P.).—Charles "Fats" McCarthy, long hunted as the slayer of a New York City detective, was killed, and three persons, including his wife, were wounded this afternoon in a desperate gun battle when police trapped the gangsters near here.

One of the wounded is Detective Harold Moore, of the New York City police, reported in a critical condition from five wounds. A gangster named Kelly was shot in the knee. Mrs. McCarthy was wounded in the groin. A gangster named Broselli was arrested.

Two New York City detectives and State police trapped the gangsters in a house on a back road off the Albany-Schenectady road.

McCarthy was known to be in this community. He was regarded as a dangerous man and fulfilled expectations. Demands to surrender brought bullets from the house.

McCarthy was accused of killing a New York detective when police trapped him and a confederate in a New York City apartment. They were wanted for questioning in a killing. The two fled over roofs, firing at the pursuing officers and one of the detectives was slain.

Some months ago a house in Rensselaer, near here, was raided on a tip that he was there, but he was not found.

Today Detectives Thomas Briggs and Moore came to Albany, got the aid of State police and trapped their man.

New York, July 10 (A.P.).—Charles (Fats) McCarthy was known to authorities here as a lieutenant of "Dutch" Schultz, Bronx beer boss.

Bethesda Carnival Opened by Firemen

The Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department last night opened its annual carnival at the carnival grounds in Bethesda, on Wisconsin avenue near Walsh street. A parade of boys on ponies inaugurated the event.

The carnival is being held to raise funds for the charitable work of the fire department, which each year cares for many of the unfortunates of the Bethesda area. The chief charity of the department is at Christmas, when toys are collected and mended and are distributed to the needy along with foodstuffs.

The usual carnival rides will be augmented by several new features and, begining tomorrow, each night will have a special designation. The event will end Saturday with a 10-mile marathon under auspices of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Fate of Fairfax Fair Comes Up Next Week

Whether a fair will be held in connection with the Fairfax County horse show next November will be decided at a meeting of the county fair association next week.

Association members are in a quandary over the matter because of a new road dividing the grounds. The problem arises over the consequent separation of the agricultural exhibit space and the horse show grounds. A single admission has been charged to both attractions in the past.

Bicentennial Awards Given to J. J. Downey and Seymour Mintz.

Jerome J. Downey, student at Georgetown University, and Seymour Mintz, student at George Washington University, the winners in the local Bicentennial educational contest, were presented medals yesterday by Isaac Gans, chairman of the contest.

A silver medal, bearing a likeness of Washington, was awarded Downey for his oration on "Washington, Exemplar of American Idealism," while a bronze medal for an oration on "George Washington, the Exemplar of Peace" was given to Mintz.

The local contest was part of a Nation-wide contest conducted on the principle of elimination and in which the District was given the same status as one of the States.

LARGE BRAZIL FORCE ACTS TO BAN REVOLT

Government Strength Moves on Sao Paulo From Three Sides.

Rio de Janeiro, July 11 (A.P.).—Loyal troops marched toward the City of Sao Paulo from the south, north and northwest tonight to quell a rebellion which apparently had the support of most of the powerful militia in Brazil's richest and busiest state.

Provisional President Getulio Vargas, whose regime was born of revolution, meanwhile appointed a commission of 21 members to draft a new constitution for the nation. Political leaders in Sao Paulo have demanded an early return to constitutional government.

The Vargas government also extended for fifteen days payments in foreign currency of interest on bonds due before September 1.

Santos, the great coffee port of São Paulo Province, was closed to all navigation by government decree in the campaign against the rebels.

Gen. Lopes Is Leader.

The government announced that infantry and artillery regiments at Itupiranunga and Jundiahy, 28 miles northwest of Sao Paulo, had refused to join the rebels, maintaining their positions in the first fighting reported thus far.

Of Rio Grande do Sul, authorities announced the rebellion was confined to the State of Sao Paulo, the rebels consisting of the Fuerza Publica (state militia), army units quartered in Sao Paulo City and members of the Democratic and Republican Paulista parties.

The leaders were Gen. Isidoro Dias Lopes and Col. Euclydes Figueiredo, of the Fuerza Publica, the Rio Grande dispatch added.

Marcos de Souza Dantas, of Sao Paulo, resigned as president of the National Coffee Council. President Vargas named Mauroroquette Pinto to succeed him.

Parade in Capital.

A progovernment mass meeting was held on the steps of Rio de Janeiro's city hall tonight. After declaring their support of President Vargas, the people paraded the streets waving flags.

Sao Paulo, July 11 (U.P.).—Sao Paulo was under complete control of rebel forces headed by Gen. Isidoro Dias Lopes tonight. Pedro de Toledo, who resigned as federal interventor for the state on Saturday, was acclaimed governor Sunday afternoon.

Town Considers New Speed Limit

Hyattsville Council Refers Question to Committee; Trash Bid Received.

The present speed limit of 18 miles per hour in Hyattsville was referred to the police committee of the town council last night for study on the advisability of raising it. At the same time it was reported that nearly one-fourth of the town taxes which came due on July 1 had been paid before July 9, collections amounting to about $6,500.

A low bid of $2,028 was received on collection of trash and garbage for the year beginning July 15. The present holder of the contract, who collected last year for about $2,700, offered to do the work this year for $2,500. An ordinance providing that not more than twelve chickens could be kept on a lot containing 5,000 square feet was referred to the health committee for further study. It provides further that the number of chickens may be increased 50 per cent for each additional 5,000 feet.

The question of paving Forest Drive was referred to the road committee, and the park committee reported that zinnias had been planted in the town's tulip beds.

Driver of Death Car Held for Grand Jury

Jesse R. Brotherton, of Brentwood, Md., was held for the grand jury last night by a coroner's jury investigating the automobile accident death of Lucille Markward, also of Brentwood. The 16-year-old girl was riding with seven other persons in a light coupe driven by Brotherton when it was in collision with another car at Chillum and Sargent roads several months ago.

Ten of the eleven riding in the two automobiles were hurt. After the coroner's jury had found that the girl "came to her death through the negligence" of Brotherton, Magistrate John A. Downing held him in bond of $1,000.

Fairfax Group Opposed To Trucks on Boulevard

A resolution opposing operation of commercial vehicles on Mount Vernon boulevard was adopted last night by the board of directors of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce.

The directors will consult the board of supervisors on the possibility of occupying rooms on the ground floor of the county clerk's office building, which were originally allocated for library use. The directors have been asked to vacate the rooms they now use in the building. The library is not to be established at present, it was explained.

MARTIAL LAW NEAR IN OHIO COAL STRIKE

Alleged Picket Killed, Miner Wounded and Three Reporters Are Arrested.

Bellaire, Ohio, July 11 (A.P.).—Mine troubles flared anew in Ohio's five-month-old coal strike today, resulting in the death of one man and the serious wounding of another.

Prosecuting Attorney Paul V. Wadell threatened to declare martial law in Belmont County as a result of the wounding of Gail Gimble, 23, a miner, while on his way to work at Powhatan, and the arrest of three alleged Communist reporters for a New York newspaper, for blocking a highway.

The dead man was Steve Bolen, of Buchtel, an alleged picket. He was wounded fatally Sunday afternoon when he and several other alleged pickets are said to have attempted to persuade Clarence Grant to quit work at the mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Co. When Grant refused, Bowen and the other pickets are said to have attempted to enforce their order and Grant shot Bolen. He died today. Grant was held, without charge, pending an investigation.

Gimble, en route to the Powhatan Mine near here, was fired on from ambush. He was wounded in the side. Physicians expressed little hope for his recovery. The three New Yorkers arrested were Donald Young, 23; his sister, Ladine, 22, and Irwyn Lermer, 26.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

TWO sources feed Trick Falls in Glacier National Park, Washington—a surface stream and a subterranean stream. The surface stream flows part of the year, during the high-water season, and joins with the falls from the submerged stream nearer the bottom of the falls.

During the dry season the lower stream alone flows, as shown on the right.

The first time H. H. Smith, Furman University athlete, picked up a javelin, he threw it 179 feet to break the South Carolina State record. With this accomplishment he entered competition with the track team and in 1929 set a new official record at a college meet by throwing the javelin 177 feet 9¾ inches.

Strange as it seems, Smith never again threw the javelin as far as he did in the first time he tried it.

The adult spinner ant is incapable of spinning, but with the customary resourcefulness of the ant, it makes the larva do the spinning for it. When a tree top nest is to be constructed, worker ants arrange the leaves they want joined, then go to the nursery and bring the larva, or baby ants, to the scene. These creatures, still in the grub stage of development, have silk glands from which they excrete floss, joining the leaves.

Leaves used by the ante in building their nests are not removed from the twigs. They remain green and continue to grow while the nest is occupied.

HOUSE SLATE CLEAR OF LOCAL MEASURES

Five District Bills, Including Kidnap Item, Put Through by Mrs. Norton.

District legislation yesterday scored a clean slate in the House, where five local bills, three of them already approved by the Senate, were maneuvered to passage by Representative Mary T. Norton.

An equal number of District bills, including the controversial merger measure, were blocked by objections in the Senate. One, however, the Patterson bill for tightening local kidnaping laws, moved to Senate passage.

Liability Insurance.

The three House bills, which now go to the President for signature, provide a Board of Indeterminte Sentence and Parole for the District, protect wild birds and game in District Potomac waters from the ravages of the hunter, and permit the Firemen's Insurance Co. of Washington and Georgetown to broaden its field of insurance risks and to capitalize at $1,000,000.

A fourth bill, which now goes to the Senate for approval, would force all automobile drivers guilty of one major traffic infraction in the District to take out liability insurance.

Regulation of Fittings.

A fifth measure, regulating plumbing and gas fitting in the District, was amended to provide license fees of from $10 to $25 instead of from $25 to $50 as provided in the Senate bill. The amendments must now be submitted to the Senate.

After the last measure passed, Chairman Norton, of the House District committee, made a short speech thanking members and the Speaker for the cooperation they have given her in enacting District legislation this year. She said yesterday's bills complete the committee's slate.

Antiweapon Leader Receives Hoover Pen

E. R. Grant, president of the National Antiweapon Association, yesterday received the pen with which President Hoover signed the new bill to regulate the sale of weapons in the District. It was dispatched to him by special messenger who also carried a letter of appreciation for the association's work signed by the President's secretary, Lawrence Richey.

Mr. Grant voiced satisfaction of the association at the outcome of the campaign.

Cab Concern Sued for $10,000.

Alleging that she sustained serious injuries when a cab of the Independent Taxi Owners Association, in which she was a passenger, collided with a City Cab, Charlotte Garland, 921 Emerson street northwest, yesterday sued both companies and Wilbur Kingree, driver of the cab in which she was riding, for $10,000. Attorneys Edward C. Kriz and Joseph H. Hurley filed the suit.

BUTTERFLY PERFUMES STUDIED

Underwood & Underwood.

Delicate perfumes given off by common butterflies that flit about Washington gardens are being studied by Dr. Austin H. Clark, of the Smithsonian Institution, who is shown here with some of his specimens. The odor comes from the scent scales of the male. The common orange and black regal fritillary has a strong odor resembling sandalwood, he finds, while the scent of red clover or milkweed is carried by the milkweed butterfly. Our most common butterfly, the small, white, cabbage variety, carries a faint odor of mignonette or sweetbriar.

TWO IN "5-AND-10" BOUND BY INTRUDER

The manager and assistant manager of a chain 5 and 10 cent store, at 3125 M street northwest, were forced into the basement of the store last night and bound by an armed hold-up man when they refused to open the safe containing the day's receipts.

The man escaped with $5 in cash and a wrist watch taken from the manager and $1 taken from his assistant.

Charles H. Maier, of 1884 Columbia road northwest, the manager, told police he had gone to the store to check up on the day's proceeds about 8 o'clock last night. His assistant, Carl Boyd, of 3326 N street northwest, was to report and help him.

When Boyd came to the door, Maier went to admit him, police were told. Two young men who had apparently waited just outside the door appeared and one of them pushed his way into the store. He drew a pistol and ordered Maier to open the safe.

When Maier refused, he forced both Maier and Boyd into the basement, where he tied their hands behind them, after robbing them. The pair managed to loose their bonds after 15 minutes and reported to police.

Child, Struck by Auto, Treated for Broken Hip

Florence Kongstead, 10, 1254 Florida avenue northeast, suffered a possible fracture of the right hip last night, when she was struck by an automobile at Montello and Florida avenues northeast, operated by Charles Herbert, 18, 1418 Trinidad street northeast.

Girl Severely Injured In Collision of Autos

Dorothy Chaldwell, 17, of 2125 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was severely cut about the head and face last night when the automobile in which she was riding with Pete LaMedico, 21, of 821 Twenty-first street northwest, was in collision with another operated by Raymond Smith, 40 years old, of 1340 Fairmont street northwest, at Twentieth street and Virginia avenue northwest.

Motorist Bites Lecturer's Cheek

Four Object to Comment on Driving; Hit Woman and Abandon Car.

A motorist was bitten on the finger and the face, and his wife was struck in the eye last night when two men and two women strenuously objected to being lectured on the way they were driving. The resulting battle excited a woman who sent in a call that a policeman was in trouble. The call was answered by four radio cars, two patrol wagons and an emergency car.

Christobal Cabezas, 32, of 329 H street northeast, his cheek bleeding, told police he was driving at First and I streets northwest, when a roadster bearing the quartet almost ran into him. He said he stopped the car and protested. A woman on the front seat leaned out and bit him on the thumb and then nipped his cheek.

Meanwhile a man in the rumble seat of the roadster got out and struck Mrs. Cabezas in the eye with his fist, Cablezas said. Then the fighting became general. The quartet in the roadster ran at the approach of police, abandoning the car.

Man Hit by Driverless Car Rolling Down Hill

Rolling quarter of a block down Eleventh street northwest from a parking place near Florida avenue, a car, reported owned by Herman Suesen, 31 years old, of Landover, Md., struck Morris Seidle, of 2263 Twelfth street northwest, as he was entering his own machine about 10 o'clock last night.

Mr. Seidle received cuts on the hands and face.

POLICE SAY 2 BOYS ADMIT 5 ROBBERIES

Holdups on Beach Drive Are Believed Solved as Capital Youths Are Arrested.

Two Washington youths yesterday confessed that they were the men who held up and robbed five motorists Saturday and Sunday nights in Montgomery County. The youths, who gave their names as Daniel Leatherman, 21, and Lawson Combs, 17, both of 1421 Twelfth street northwest, told Montgomery County police that they staged the holdups to get money to pay bills.

They were arrested early yesterday by County Policemen Webb Hersperger and Frank Soper near the scene of the last holdup.

Halting to admonish Ashby Grant, of Silver Spring, Md., an empoye of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, for being parked without lights on Beach drive near East-West highway, the policemen were surprised to hear Grant shout:

"Lights!" Stop that car. Those two men just held me up."

The policemen raced after the car and pulled alongside.

A .32-caliber revolver and Grant's keys wrapped in a handkerchief were found on the seat of the coupe and about $10 in cash was found on the men.

The two are alleged to have held up five motorists in the course of the week-end.

Harry O. Decker, of Baltimore, Md., was held up on Jones Bridge road near Connecticut avenue and $8 taken from him, and Frank B. Daniel, jr., 3815 Jocelyn street northwest, was held up on Beach drive near where the men were arrested. John A. Birch, 412 Cummings lane, was held up on Brookeville road. Steven W. Lohr, Kensington, Md., was held up on Connecticut avenue near Jones Bridge road and Grant on Beach drive early Monday morning.

All five men identified the two suspects as the men who held them up. In each case the holdup men had taken the keys to the victim's car and tied them in a handkerchief, tossing them out several blocks farther along the road.

Glassford Raid Papers To Face Test in Court

The legality of raids based upon papers signed by Superintendent of Police Glassford will be tested in District Supreme Court Friday when Attorneys Whelan and O'Connell go before Justice F. D. Letts with a motion to quash charges against an alleged gambler, Harry Hill.

The attorneys contend the statute on which Glassford's warrant was based is not now in force. Under the 50-year-old law which the police chief used in making gambling raids, a raid could be ordered on complaint of an officer or of two householders.

Camera Taken From Automobile.

A camera valued at $15 was stolen from the automobile of Mrs. Loraine G. Bassett, a visitor from Berkeley, Calif., when she parked in front of 1915 G street northwest yesterday.

PHONE RATE HEARING IS POSTPONED WEEK

Compromise Efforts on Cut Are Unproductive So Far; Report Due Friday.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday postponed the resumption of the telephone rate hearing until next Monday after a conference with R. A. Van Orsdel, counsel, and other officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. On Friday the telephone company is expected to make a further report to the commission.

Several parleys have been held since the hearing was adjourned with the aim of effecting a compromise under which the telephone company would make a voluntary rate reduction, but so far nothing definite has come of it.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, also announced that the commission will rule tomorrow on the petitions of Peoples Counsel Richmond B. Keech and the Federation of Citizens Associations for a public hearing on gas rates.

A hearing will be held, probably the latter part of August, on the matter of relocating public hack stands in the District. The commission took over the jurisdiction of these stands upon passage of the new license act though the joint board of the utilities body and the District Commissioners has the final authority.

In this connection the commission is expected to make another effort to break up the taxicab monopolies at certain hotels. Several test cases are now pending in the courts, and appeals probably will be taken if the utilities body establishes public stands adjacent to these hotels, which now sell their trade to the Black & White and Yellow and the Mayflower companies.

Association Joins Drive Against Unfit Barbers

The Master Barbers Protective Association is planning to cooperate with the District Health Department in seeking to prevent admission of barbers, unable to pass examinations in their States, to the District, it was announced last night.

The association stated that barbers who had failed to pass physical examinations in their States were operating here where no examination is necessary.

Limited Number of Seats Is Available for Sylvan Program.

In its portion of the summer festival tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Sylvan Theater, the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Glee Club will be assisted by Miss Mary O'Donoghue, radio contralto, and Miss Evelyn Scott, violinist.

Miss Nina Norman, soprano, and Miss Alice Louise Hunter, dancers, will aid in the program of the Olde Tyme Dancing Club. Others to be heard will be Nat Liebermann, violinist, and Miss Edith Hunter, pianist.

A limited number of seats will be on sale at 25 cents each. The program will be under auspices of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Parks.

Aid to Van Duzer Loses His Position

W. H. Harland to Take Less Important Job, With $3,400 Salary Cut.

The District economy program, induced by a small appropriation in the 1933 act, has forced William H. Harland, former director of traffic, out of the position of assistant to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer into that of a superintendent in charge of signs with a consequent reduction in salary from $5,400 to $2,000 a year.

This action was announced yesterday by Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Commissioner in charge of the department of vehicles and traffic. He said M. O. Eldridge, also a former traffic director, will be retained as assistant to Mr. Van Duzer.

The District personnel board yesterday adopted certain rules governing the operation of the five-day week for per diem employes which it will report to the Commissioners today. This policy of making Saturday a full holiday was instituted for most per diem employes last week and will become fully operative this week.

Hardware Store Robbed.

A duplicate key gained entrance for thieves to the Peoples Hardware Store at 1311 Seventh street northwest early yesterday, and $59 was stolen according to a report by Harry D. Jones, manager of the store.

APARTMENT HOUSES INSPECTION DELAYED

Shortage of Help in District Department; Temporary Licenses Allowed.

Apartment house proprietors will be permitted to present statements regarding the condition of their buildings upon application for a license, as required by the new District license act, pending an inspection by municipal electrical and building inspectors and by the fire marshal's office, under an agreement reached by engineer department officials.

Most Pressing Problem.

Confronted with the difficult problem of considerably more work and no additional appropriation for extra employes, the department of inspection, of which Capt. Hugh P. Oram is director, has been seeking a solution since July 1.

The 8,000 apartment houses offer the most pressing problem as the law requires that their owners obtain licenses at once. The license act does not differentiate between the large and the small apartment building, and Engineer Department officials doubt whether the $5 fee, even in aggregate, will pay for the inspections required.

Reduced Theater Fee.

Similar problems have been raised by the inclusion of a number of businesses which heretofore were not required to obtain licenses. The District has a limited number of inspectors in all departments and is unable to cope with such a large number of inspections at one time, it was said.

Among other peculiarities in the license act is a new reduced fee of $30 for motion picture theaters, which requires the most constant checks of any public buildings because of the number of lives at stake. This fee formerly was $100 a year.

Youth With Gun Fails at Holdup

Routed by Intended Victim; Suspect Later Seized in Garage.

A youthful hold-up who was repulsed by his intended victim, despite a gun threat, was arrested by police yesterday when a radio message informed them of his activities.

J. O. Tune, proprietor of a hat shop at 205 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, ignored a gun in the hands of the 18-year-old youth and grappled with him. The youth fled and was seized in a garage in the rear of the store by J. P. Comisky, of the Traffic Bureau, and Watson Salkeld, of the Fourth Precinct, who responded to a radio flash.

Jack Witsbadel, who said that he was a visitor from New Jersey, was arrested and held for investigation. Witnesses informed police of the attempted hold-up.

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

THE world premier of "Skyscraper Souls," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of Faith Baldwin's sensational novel, "Skyscraper," has been assured Loew's Fox Theater for Friday of this week. Word was received Sunday by Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in Washington, that the Capital would play the picture before any other city in America.

Among those appearing in pivotal roles in this ultramodern film are Maureen O'Sullivan, most recently seen with Johnny Weissmuller in "Tarzan, the Ape Man;" Norman Foster, Warren William, loaned to M-G-M by Warner Brothers for this particular assignment; Anita Page and Jean Hersholt.

And speaking of Loew's Fox, Wesley Eddy is scheduled positively to reappear on the F street stage, in conjunction with "Skyscraper Souls," next week. He was loaned to Baltimore for a single week, which has been stretched into three, but now is coming back with the "Curiosities" revue, with which, by the way, he is working in the Monumental City this week.

Well, anyhow, Wes, you won't have to pass Laurel any more!

And that reminds me, too. If you should happen to see a long, sneaky looking tan Packard convertible coupe, with a trunk trailing along about a half block behind, driven by a stocky little fellow with a Panama hat on the back of his head, a beautiful blonde by his side and a wire-haired fox terrier climbing all over the place, that would be Al Trahan and his wife, on their way to the Earle to headline the stage show. Especially if the car bore New York tags 3Y-1386. Y'wekkum.

Ann Pritchard, also of the current vaudeville bill at the Earle, looks like Jean Harlow—at least, from the third row of the mezzanine. Not that it matters.

Seven or eight years ago, when, in a playful moment, we let Harry Crandall in for an unsuspected expense account by making a three-reel film of that old broadcasting unit, the "Crandall Saturday Nighters," in action, we included a close-up of a gadget called the "oscillograph," which records vividly by a beam the tonal variations being put on the air, because it seemed an uncanny and interesting contrivance to the lay mind, untutored in the intricacies of the raddio. This week it is made an important part of the Metrotone News. Heh-heh-heh!

Comes a long, single-spaced letter from his Los Angeles attorney explaining that Adolphe Menjou is not the father of Harold Tinsley Menjou, in the toils of the law for having allegedly caused the death of a Miss Gauthier in a fatal automobile accident. It seems that the noted screen star has, in certain quarters, been roundly upbraided for callously ignoring the plight of what many believe to be his own son.

Harold Tinsley Menjou, we are informed, is the adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, but the natural son of Kathryn Tinsley Menjou, divorced wife of the actor, and a father still living, Adolphe Menjou, it would appear, has not so much as seen Harold since his divorce from the boy's mother in 1926. The son, it is said, has been continuously with her and his stepfather.

So if that is what you have been worrying about——

Conchita Montenegro, the charming Spanish ballerina appearing in person this week as star of the "On the Riviera" revue at Loew's Fox, was guest of honor at a watermelon orgy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Gilmore on Sabbath evening. Mr. Gilmore reports that while the orchestra got a bit confused in the matter of nationality and played "Die Wacht am Rind," you never seed to much fun!

"A me, me gusta mas mejor pan de Mallorca, tostado con mantequilla y cafe con leche," said he, dropping easily into his rich Czechoslovakian!

INDIVIDUALISM HELD SALIENT LATIN TRAIT

Cornell Lecturer at G. W. U. Describes It as Spain's Greatest Problem.

"The Spanish-Americans were never more Spanish then when they rebelled against Spain," Prof. A. P. Whitaker, of Cornell University, said in his lecture on "Iberian Backgrounds of Latin America," delivered yesterday before George Washington University's Conference on Hispanic-American Affairs.

Dr. Whitaker asserted that the intense individualism of the Spanish character is today, and always has been, Spain's greatest problem. As early as 1812, he said, this national trait, as a social problem, was discussed with King Ferdinand, while today we have a modern writer asserting that "Spain has plenty of leaders but no followers."

Before the revolutions for independence in South America, Spain was making an earnest effort to adapt her colonial system to the needs of a new era, according to the lecturer.

"Her failure is not odd to account for," he said, "when viewed in perspective. Her entanglements in France and Italy at that time made it difficult for an enlightened ministry to effect changes."

Today the conference will be addressed by two Latin-Americans, one a native of Brazil and the other of Peru, both of whom are known throughout the world in the field of Hispanic studies. Modern economic conditions will be discussed by Dr. J. F. Normano, associate director of Harvard University's bureau for economic research in Latin America. Prof. Victor A. Belaunde, of the University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru, who at present is teaching at the University of Miami, will lecture on "Native Backgrounds."

Gasoline Station Robbed of $250

About $250 was stolen yesterday from a floor safe in the office of a filling station of the Shell Eastern Petroleum Products Co. at Connecticut avenue and Yuma street northwest.

Entrance was gained by breaking a window. The thieves forced the safe open. Cigarettes, razor blades and about $40 worth of credit slips were taken. The theft was reported by Paul Alexander, 21, 117 East Bradley lane, Chevy Chase, Md.

Alexander later was arrested by Detective Sergt. O. W. Mansfield for investigation.

Three Men Rob Grocer of $25.

Three colored men, one armed with a pistol, last night held up Isadore Slovin, a grocer, of 50 M street southwest. They took $25 from a cash drawer and ran from the store, he said.

CAPITAL POPULATION NOW TOTALS 493,000

District Exceeds 8 States; National Growth Less Due to Immigration Sag.

Increase of 8,131 in the population of the District of Columbia since April 1, 1930, when the Federal census was taken, bringing the total population of the Capital to 493,000, was reported yesterday by the Commerce Department's Bureau of Census. These figures represent an estimate up to July 1 of this year.

If the population continues to increase at the average of the past two years, the population of Washington will be 500,000 by 1936, it is estimated. The population increased 3,000 between July 1, 1930, and July 1, 1931, and 2,000 during the last fiscal year.

The population of the District now exceeds that of eight States—Arizona, Delaware, Idaho, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Vermont and Wyoming. It is less than 1,000 under the population of Utah.

Total population of the United States increased only 914,635, during the last fiscal year, the lowest rate in more than a decade, and 162,778 less than for the 1930 fiscal year. The decrease is attributed to the great decline in immigration, which amounted to only 7,086. This figure was 186,392 under the 1930 estimate.

Number of births in the United States was 2,296,692 during the last year. Deaths amounted to 1,389,143. Births increased only 7,578 over the previous year, while the death rate was 16,036 less than in 1930.

Pocketbook and $20 Stolen.

PREVIEW HELD HERE OF WAR CYCLORAMA

Huge Canvas Contains 6,000 Figures in Depicting Four-Year Struggle.

By NELSON B. BELL.

One of the wonders of the age took its place among Washington's permanent amusement exhibits last night.

Before a throng of distinguished guests, "Le Pantheon de la Guerre" was placed on view for the first time in America in the Panorama Building, New Jersey avenue and C street northwest.

Here is one of the most extraordinary canvases ever achieved by brush and palette. Executed over a period of five years, beginning with the outbreak of the war, by 128 artists, it fills a field 402 feet long and 45 feet high. It is, as the name indicates, literally a Temple of the War.

Foremost Warriors Shown.

About the base of the Pantheon are grouped the foremost warriors and statesmen of all the nations whose flags were massed on the side of the allies. In the center, grouped upon a mighty flight of steps, are thousands of perfectly defined and life-like figures. Above and beyond them stretch the battle fields of France and Belgium and the whole imposing panoply of war—mounted and foot troops, artillery, hospital units, burning villages, horse and motor transports, mobile kitchens, grave diggers, airplanes in flight and combat, trenches, the ghastly desolation of no man's land and all the rest of the holocaust that was touched off in a little Serbian village in the summer of 1914.

All of the personages whose names are inseparably linked with the Great War are discoverable among the 6,000 figures that constitute the living symbols of the four-year struggle—President Wilson, King George of England and the Prince of Wales, King Albert of Belgium, Cardinal Mercier, King Emmanuel, Joffre, Foch, Clemenceau, the Tiger of France; Petain, Haig, Kitchener, Balfour, Tardieu, Pershing and many others.

Four Former Presidents.

It is notable that in the American segment of the mammoth canvas there are four figures who have occupied the presidential chair — Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson and Herbert Hoover. In addition, of course, are the members of the Wilson Cabinet and industrial, financial and governmental leaders of the World War period.

The panorama's highlights are comprehensively pointed out and explained by lecturers, and visitors are given opera glasses with which to view the more distant perspectives.

"Le Pantheon de la Guerre" is substantially and handsomely housed. The building is equepped with a spacious lobby and rest rooms for ladies and gentlemen. The walls of the lobby are lined with 388 portrait studies of the foremost figures of the war, in themselves an interesting and valuable exhibit.

Will Remain Here for Year.

This huge pictorial record of the "war to end war" is presented in America by the Pantheon Corporation, of which Harry M. Crandall, pioneer motion picture exhibitor of the Capital, is president. Beginning today, it will be open to the public daily, including Sundays, from 10 a. m. to midnight. It is the present plan to exhibit the "Pantheon de la Guerre" locally for a year, when it will be moved to the Chicago World's Fair, scheduled to open in the summer of 1933.

Before last evening's invitational preview, attended by representatives of the Diplomatic Corps, leaders of social, official and professional Washington and the press "Le Pantheon de la Guerre" was leisurely and interestedly viewed by President Hoover and a White House party.
